JURY RECEIVES BUCKLEY MURDER CASE

LOCAL TROOPS ARE EFFICIENT IN NICARAGUA

VESSELS OF NAVY STAND READY IN EMERGENCY

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright 1931, by the Escanaba Press)

Washington, April 20—The new policy of the Hoover administration in advising American citizens that they cannot expect the protection of the United States government while residing in Nicaragua, probably will be followed whenever unrest develops in other Latin American countries.

David Lawrence.

European governments which have hitherto depended upon the United States to protect all foreigners in this hemisphere are looking askance at the action of the American government. The department of state argues, however, that all protection has not been withdrawn but simply the use of armed forces in the interior of Nicaragua and that protection continues to be given at sea cost towns where American vessels can afford refuge and even use their guns and land marines and blue jackets in emergencies.

Warfare Difficult

Foreign governments will not be criticized if they send their own naval vessels to assist in taking off refugees though to be sure an attack on a Nicaraguan port or landing of the marines of any power except the United States would not be viewed as friendly.

If the present disturbance in Nicaragua should lead to the killing of more Americans and foreigners, the department of state might have to change its policy again, but this would be in response to an aroused American public opinion. In recent years less and less interest has been taken by the American press in the murder of American citizens who live abroad. Overt acts, however, have a way of inflaming the public overnight. The American government is lending material and moral support to the Nicaraguan government in the hope that it can deal with the insurgent forces at inland points. The guerilla warfare which has been conducted against the American marines has grown more and more difficult to handle, as the Nicaraguan authorities themselves have been in an unpopular position because of the presence of foreign forces on Nicaraguan soil.

Successful in Haiti

The elimination of American marines will limit the combat to the Nicaraguan government and the insurgents. The Nicaraguan national guard is being instructed by American marine officers and ultimately the national guard may become a standing army. The United States has had some success in training local constabularies to preserve order

Sales Tax Discussion Set for Today

Bill Providing for New Hospital Is Passed by House

Lansing, Mich., April 20 (AP)—The house tonight passed the Ward bill providing for the construction of a new tuberculosis sanatorium in northern Michigan. The vote was 6 to 1 with Rep. James Hulme of Adrian, the only opponent.

The measure carries no appropriation. The malt tax bill which is now in the house committee provides that $400,000 of the revenue from the proposed levy be spent for the new state sanatorium.

The house also sent to the senate the Rummell bill to permit the establishment of junior colleges of school districts of between 14,000 and 25,000. The measure provides for a local referendum.

WALKER CALLS CHARGES FALSE

New York Mayor Replies To Accusations Made Against His Office

Albany, N. Y., April 20 (AP)—Mayor James J. Walker of New York told Governor Roosevelt today in a 15,000 word statement that charges against him were "unwarranted and false accusations . . . recklessly made."

"I declare that I have adequately and consistently done my full duty as mayor of the city of New York," the mayor's statement said, "and I ask that these charges be dismissed."

Replying to charges of "open and sordid corruption in the police department," Mayor Walker said:

"The mayor cannot accept . . . responsibility for the individual conduct of 18,815 men at all hours of the day or night. He does, however, accept responsibility for the most vigorous procedure against any member of it who has in any way indicated unfitness to wear the uniform."

"Work of Socialists"

The charges to which Mayor Walker made answer were filed with Governor Roosevelt late in March by a group of New York citizens arganized as "the city affairs committee." The charges were signed by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise and Dr. John Haynes Holmes.

"The city affairs committee," said Mayor Walker in his reply today, "is nothing more than an annex of the Socialty party, masquerading under a name ingeniously contrived to deceive the public. . . . Holmes and Wise are both enrolled Socialists. . . . The executive committee of the so-called 'committee' included others active in the Socialist movement."

Mayor Walker's reply took up one by one the ten "detailed items" in the charges against him. In each case he sought to show they were without foundation.

Girl Found Hanged Fought With Her Assailant, Belief

San Diego, Calif., April 20 (AP)—Coroner's surgeons announced today an autopsy on the body of Louise Teuber, 17, whose nude body was found hanging from a tree near La Mesa yesterday had revealed human skin under the fingernails of the dead girl as evidence that a struggle preceded death.

At the same time it was stated evidence had been found that the girl had ben struck a heavy blow behind the left ear and the force of this blow was probably sufficient to have caused unconsciousness.

It was indicated the girl was either dying, or dead, when the slayer placed the noose about her neck and pulled her body to the limb of the tree.

High Court Grants Negro New Trial

Washington, April 20 (AP)—A District of Columbia negro sentenced to death for murder was granted a new trial today by the supreme court because the trial judge had not permitted jurors to be asked if they had any racial prejudices.

Alfred Scott Aldridge, the negro, was convicted of having shot to death Harry J. McDonald, a white policeman, in July, 1929. The District of Columbia court of appeals refused to allow him a new trial on the judge's refusal to permit counsel for Aldridge to ask the jurors if they had any prejudices against the man because he was a negro.

"The propriety of such an inquiry had been generally recognized," Chief Justice Hughes said in announcing the court's decision.

BILL DESIGNED TO CUT CHAIN STORE PROFITS

MEASURE RECEIVES CENSURE, PRAISE; BATTLE LOOMS

BY G. T. SHILSON

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Lansing, April 20 (AP)—A proposed sales tax, designed to produce $15,000,000 a year largely for the purpose of cutting school taxes, will meet its first serious test in the legislature Tuesday.

The McBride-Dykstra bill, advocating a graduated levy on sales, has been set as a special order of business. In the meantime an opinion has been requested from the attorney general as to the scope of the act. The bill has been as vigorously censured and praised as any pending before the law-making body. The home defense league, including independent merchants and wholesalers in its membership, is solidly behind the plan. The objective sought by friends of the tax is to assess chain stores more heavily than independents and thus lessen competition. The smaller merchants would pay only a nominal fee. On sales above $10,000 the levy would be one per cent on gross sales of $1,000,00 or more a year.

Opposition Heavy

Newspapers, some of which claim the levy would force a tax on circulation sales and possibly a fee against newsboys and news dealers, department stores and other institutions and organizations whose annual sales reach large figures have assailed the plan bitterly. Among other things asked of the attorney general is just how far the bill would go toward assessing newspaper sales, sand sales and scores of other products.

Opponents of the bill claim they have it stopped in the house. Those back of the plan contend they have votes to spare in the lower branch. Governor Brucker, although he has studied the plan, has not taken a stand.

The Thomas income tax bills are on the calendar for later in the week. Previous referenda on income tax measures have been pointed to liberally by enemies of the income levy. They contend voters have expressed themselves so emphatically on more than one occasion that the legislature would be flying in the face of popular preference if it enacted an income tax. The arguments on the other side have been that real property owners are struggling under a tax burden which is approaching the breaking point. Adequate relief can be obtained only through a levy on incomes, they declare. The Thomas bills,

Collector Killed Saving His Money

Baltimore, April 20 (AP)—John W. Anderson, collector for a dairy company, was shot and fatally wounded today by one of two bandits as he started to fight with the other in a successful effort to save the proceeds of his rounds in the Guilford residential section.

Anderson died several hours after the shooting. He told police he was shot as he struck one of the bandits over the head with a milk bottle.

When Anderson reached the hospital, he still clutched the leather satchel in which reposed the $163.64 he had collected. The collector was married.

Genaro Released On Vag Charges

Chicago, April 20 (AP)—Joseph "Pepe" Genaro, classed by the Chicago crime commission as a "public enemy" and named as defendant in one of Judge H. Lyle's vagrancy warrants, was freed of the vagrancy charge today. The state said it had no evidence Genaro was a vagrant. The state has acted similarly in several other "public enemy" vagrancy cases, including that against Capone.

Batteries Today: Murphy and Brucker

Detroit, April 20 (AP)—Mayor Frank Murphy will throw the first ball when the Detroit Tigers and the St. Louis Browns open the big league season here Wednesday.

Governor Wilber M. Brucker will catch it—if it is within his reach and he doesn't fumble.

Thieves Outwit Three Detroit Officers And Loot City Treasury

Detroit, April 20 (AP)—Outwitting three policemen assigned to guard the money cages of the city treasurer's office, two daring thieves cut a hole in the wire network protecting a momentarily unoccupied cage late today and fled with $28,458.01 in cash and checks.

In the chase that followed, a man who said he was Theodore Crowley, 28, of Chicago, was arrested in a store three blocks away. He had no pistol and none of the stolen money was found on him, but witnesses identified him as one of the men who fled. He was charged with grand larcency. The other man has not been arrested.

Clerks in the treasurer's office said the two men had spent several hours in the treasurer's office, on the second floor of the city hall. But that they then were believed to be tax-payers looking up their assessments.

As closing time neared, one of the men sat on a stool usually occupied by a policeman and, masking his actions with a newspaper, cut a hole in the cage. When George Wichow, the cashier, stepped from the cage for a moment, the other man rushed up, reached through the hole and scooped up the checks and currency representing the day's receipts. Then the men fled in opposite directions.

Leo Shiffman, a clerk, saw the theft and gave the alarm, following one of the men. Policemen stationed throughout the building joined in the chase.

The cages are equipped with tear gas guns and bombs, to be released by the cashiers in case of robbery. The thieves so timed their operations that no one was in a position to release the gas bombs when the theft was committed.

ALFONSO PICKS HIS NEW HOME

Exiled King Decides He Will Reside for Time at Fontainebleau

Paris, April 20 (AP)—Alfonso of Spain, awaiting in exile for his people to call him home, is to live in Fontainebleau among the ghosts of the historic past.

Tomorrow his queen will take her children there, putting up at the Savoy hotel for the time being while Alfonso is in London for a few days on business. He will join them when he returns and later perhaps they will establish a more private residence.

The Duke of Miranda, chief of the royal household, announced today that Alfonso had chosen to remain in France, apparently because he wished to be near at hand in case the elections in Spain next month should go his way. The choice disappointed those who had been certain that the royal exiles would live in England.

Traveling as the Duke of Toledo, the monarch planned to motor down to Calais tonight to cross the channel to England. Among other things he will arrange to place the infant Juan in a British naval school. The boy was a cadet in the Spanish naval school at Cadiz when the Republicans took over Madrid. He fled to Gibraltar whence he went to Naples, leaving there today for Genoa on the way here.

The Duke of Miranda cleared up another point today when he disclosed that Alfonso had signed away none of his rights to the throne when he left his capital. The king, he said, signed no document whatsoever beyond his own manifesto of farewell to the Spanish people.

Postpone Burke's Trial Three Days

St. Joseph, Mich., April 20 (AP)—The illness of Circuit Judge Charles E. White today forced the postponemnet of the trial of Fred Burke, notorious gangster and gunman, until next Thursday.

Burke was to have gone on trial today on a charge of slaying Patrolman Charles Skelly in St. Joseph in December 1929. It was believed here today that Burke might plead guilty when he appears before Judge White.

Judge White was ill at his home in Niles today with a throat ailment. It was expected he would be unable to hold court for at least three days.

Odd Fellows Will Aid Condemned Man

Rochester, Mich., April 20 (AP)—The Rochester Odd Fellows lodge will sponsor a benefit dance Thursday night to raise funds with which to finance a possible new trial for Earl Manchester, former Rochester youth and member of the lodge, who is under sentence of death in Macon, Ga., for murder.

Manchester and his landlady, a Mrs. Parker, were convicted of killing a roomer. Mrs. Parker, convicted of instigating the plot, is serving a life sentence.

The condemned youth appealed recently to a weekly newspaper here for aid in raising funds to finance further fight against execution of the death penalty. He asserted his innocence and claimed he could prove, if granted a new trial, that he did not commit the murder.

Administration's Building Bill Is Approved by House

Lansing, April 20 (AP)—The first step towards carrying out Governor Brucker's economy program was completed by the legislature Monday night. Without a dissenting vote the senate passed the administration's building bill. It slashes more than $7,000,000 from the improvement program approved by the legislature of 1929 for the coming beennium. The measure carries appropriations of $2,179,500 for the year 1931-32 and $2,250,000 for the 1932-33 instead of $11,970,000 as contemplated in the original budget.

The bill previously had passed the house. It now goes to Governor Brucker.

Rain Gives Relief To Fire Situation

Iron River, Mich., April 20 (AP)—Rain last night and today wet down timber and brush in this district, which has been the scene of numerous brush and forest fires within the last ten days.

The fire menace was averted temporarily by the rain, conservation officers said.

Symphony Orchestra Gives Aid to Pupils

BY HELEN WELSHIMER

NEA Service Writer

Cleveland, April 20—School children of Cleveland are the first group of youngsters in the world to have major symphony orchestra concerts prescribed for them along with their reading and writing and geography.

A certain amount of time is spent in musical appreciation in Cleveland classrooms every week. But the children do more than trip up and down the black and white ladders of song. They aren't told that if they open their mouths a little wider they may become glee club tenors or church sopranos.

Instead, they are given a course in music appreciation which prepares them to understand the special concerts which the Cleveland Symphonies of the world, gives for their benefit each winter and spring.

Taught to Understand

They are taught to recognize a carnival scene in music from a street serenade; a gypsy dance from a marionette funeral. They must know who wrote the music to which they listen, when and where and why, and what the theme tells. They are trained to find the pictures in good music so they won't sit and yawn and twist their programs as older people have a habit of doing.

And the vibrant stillness of Severance Hall, where the concerts are held, is proof enough that children will like music when they understand it. There are no whispers, unless an ecstactic little voice tells another enraptured boy or girl to listen for the English horn that is

YANKEE SHIPS GUARD COAST OF HONDURAS

AMERICAN CITIZENS PROTECTED DURING REVOLUTION

BULLETIN

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press)

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, Apr. 20 (AP)—The Honduran congress tonight declared a state of martial law throughout the country following upon the revolution on the northern coast begun yesterday. Troops were being called to the colors and civic guards were being organized everywhere.

Washington, April 20 (AP)—American naval and merchant ships were arrayed tonight along the coast of Honduras to protect 1,250 United States citizens from harm during the revolution in that country.

Each of the four main ports, centers of the economic domain of big American fruit companies, either had one or more American ships riding in the harbor or expected before dawn.

The cruisers Trenton and Marblehead, speeding from Guantanamo, Cuba, were approaching Trujillo-Puerto Castitla and Puerto Cortez, respectively. At La Ceiba, largest of the seacoast towns, lay the Cruiser Memphis. A steamer of the United Fruit company was anchored in Tela harbor to take aboard American women and children if necessary.

Other fruit steamers were along the coast ready to carry refugees if the spread of the rebellion against President Mejia Colindres made that action necessary. Wherever possible American women and children were brought from inland plantations to the ports. Most of the 1,250 Americans in the danger zone are employes of the fruit companies or members of their families.

Not Anti-Foreign

None of the reports received by the state or navy departments contained any indication that Americans or foreigners had been injured or that the revolution had any anti-American or anti-foreign aspects.

Secretary Stimson and Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, conferred on the progress of precautionary measures which they ordered yesterday on receipt of news of the outbreak of the Honduran rebellion.

The three American cruisers, carrying a total of about 120 officers ad 1,300 men, were under orders to confine their operations to the coast towns, to provide asylum for American and other foreign residents and protect life and property in those towns.

They were not to go inland to protect American owned railways or plantations. They were to maintain strict neutrality between the revolutionary and the government forces. Each of these 7500-ton cruisers, in addition to its six-inch guns carried two airplanes.

Myers Sentenced As Habitual Criminal

Detroit, April 20. (AP)—George Myers, 48, who "confessed" several weeks ago that he killed six persons with an axe in Iowa 19 years ago, was sentenced to life imprisonment by Circuit Court Judge Homer Ferguson today after a jury had convicted him of being an habitual criminal.

The first conviction charged against him in today's trial was of burglary in Ohio, in 1905. The fifth was in circuit court here a few weeks ago, of breaking and entering.

It was while awaiting trial on the last charge that he made a detailed "confession" of six axe slayings in Villisco, Ia., in 1912. Iowa officers refused to credit his statements, largely on the grounds that eight persons were killed in the axe slayings which he claimed to have committed.

Judge On Trial for Statutory Offense

Hart, Mich., April 20 (AP)—County Judge Burton S. Shaw went on trial in circuit court here today, charged with a statutory offense against a 15 year old girl who was ward of his court. Selection of a jury was not completed today.

The girl, now married, was in court today and is expected to testify for the state.

Judge James S. Parker, of Flint, is presiding.

TO BE RETIRED

Under a revised pension plan ratified by stockholders of the United States Steel corporation, its president, James A. Farrell, will be retired in 1933, when he will be 70 years old.

PENSION PLAN WINS APPROVAL

U. S. Steel Stockholders Ratify System Fixing Limit at Age 70

BY DONALD C. BOLLES

Hoboken, N. J., April 20 (AP)—Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee of the United States Steel corporation expressed a belief "that we can face the future with the fullest confidence," in addressing the annual meeting of stockholders today.

"The stimulus which adversity has given to our efforts to reorganize and improve our industrial structure," he said, "has been very great. We have been passing through some tribulation but if we emerge from the testing period with improved efficiency and a more highly producing and economical basis of operations, our tribulation will not have been in vain.

"For myself I entertain no doubt that such will be the outcome and with this in mind I believe we can face the future with the fullest confidence."

Farrell to Retire

President James A. Farrell noted that March showed substantial improvement in prices of structural steel and other lines and predicted a "reasonably good year" for the corporation if it could obtain a greater tonnage at present prices.

The annual meeting which attracted about 500 men and women to the corporate trust company resulted in ratification of a revised pension plan materially increasing compensation and fixing the retirement age.

The plan worked out by the board of officers after three years study foreshadows the retirement in 1933 of Mr. Farrell, who has been president since 1911. He hailed it as "the greatest thing the corporation has done with respect to the welfare of its men in its thirty years history." As ratified by stockholders the voluntary retirement age is fixed at 65 and compulsory at 70. Mr. Farrell's 70th birthday is February 15, 1933.

Mr. Farrell said that the revised pension plan provides an incentive to the men down the line who are ambitious and should have an opportunity to reach higher positions, and at the same time provides protection "to those who haven't been as thrifty as they might be."

Mrs. McClellan Granted Divorce

Detroit, April 20 (AP)—Mrs. Bernice McClellan, who named Alice Brady, stage and motion picture actress, as co-respondent, was granted a divorce today from Donald C. McClellan, former actor, by Circuit Judge Arthur Webster. McClellan did not appear to contest the suit.

Mrs. McClellan testified she called her hunband by telephone while he was in Nassau, N. Y., and that while she was talking to him, heard a woman exclaim, "hurry up, darling." She said she recognized the voice as that of Miss Brady.

She also testified to seeing Miss Brady near her husband's dressing room in a New York theater. Shortly after that, she said, her huband told her he had transferred his affections to another woman.

The McClellans were married in 1927. Mrs. McClellan was granted custody of their daughter, but the question of alimony was reserved.

DELIBERATORS RETIRE AFTER ELEVEN HOURS

VERDICT MUST NOT BE COMPROMISE, SAYS JUDGE

Detroit, April 20. (AP)—After eleven hours of debate, the jury deliberating the fate of three defendants in the Gerald E. Buckley assassination retired at 9:30 p. m. The jurors will resume their deliberations at 9 a. m. tomorrow. The defendants, Ted Pizzino, Angelo Livecchi and Joe Bommarito, expressed disappointment when informed there would be no verdict tonight.

Raised voices had been audible from within the jury room during those hours of debate and occasionally the sound of fists pounding on a table. Except for those indications that the jurors were not in accord on some elements of the case, there were no signs as to how the eight men and four women constituting the jury stood on the guilt or innocence of the three men.

Shot in Hotel.

The case was placed in the jury's hands at 10:10 a. m. today by Recorder's Judge Edward J. Jeffries, who has presided over the eight weeks of testimony and arguments. During those two months, the state offered testimony of 130 witnesses to support its contention that Pizzino and Bommarito entered the lobby of the LaSalle hotel at 1:40 a. m. last July 23 and shot the radio crusader as he sat reading a newspaper. The defense produced considerably less than half that number in an effort to show that the slayers were not among the defendants and to dispute the state's theory that Buckley was slain because of his attacks on the underworld and his support of the Mayoralty campaign which had swept the then Mayor Charles Bowles out of office a few hours before the slaying.

No Compromise.

Livecchi is accused of signalling the gunmen from within the hotel when the scene was set for the assassination.

In his charge to the jury today, Judge Jeffries eliminated any possibility of a compromise verdict.

He instructed the jury that it was to find the defendants guilty of first degree murder or return a verdict for their acquittal whether the verdict for acquittal or conviction will designate the defendants severally or jointly was left up to the jury.

Judge Jeffries instructed the jury if it should disagree on the

Businessmen View Better Business

New York, April 20 (AP)—Confidence in the future was expressed today by three leaders of American business and industry as follows:

Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee, United States Steel corporation: "x x x If we emerge from the testing period with improved efficiencies x x x our tribulation will not have been in vain. For myself, I entertain no doubt that such will be the outcome and with this in mind I believe we can face the future with the fullest confidence."

James A. Farrell, president, United States Steel corporation: "March showed substantial improvement x x x so we can reasonably feel that the whole upward trend in prices is bound to gain momentum later in the year."

Walter S. Gifford, president, the American Telephone and Telegraph company: "I believe in the common sense and ability of the American people and I have, therefore, no fears of the present or the future."

New York Feels Earthquake Shock

Albany, N. Y., April 20 (AP)—Upstate New York and part of Massachusetts trembled to earth shocks today. No serious property damage was reported.

The area in which the tremors were felt was not definitely outlined, but they seemed to center about the Albany-Schenectady-Troy area.

In those cities dishes rattled on pantry shelves, pictures swayed on walls, chairs rocked by themselves, and objects skidded about on tables and mantles.

The earthquake was officially recorded at the Dudley observatory in Albany and at Canisius college in Buffalo. The Rev. John P. Delaney, in charge of the seismograph at the college, said that the instrument showed it began at 2.56.34 p. m. and lasted about one minute.

BOY MURDERED JURY DECIDES

Maple City Youth Could Not Have Killed Himself, Coroner Says

Suttons Bay, Mich., April 20 (AP)—A coroner's jury returned a verdict of death at the hands of persons unknown today in the case of Adam Bellinger, 20, Maple City youth who was shot to death in a darkened room of his home early yesterday as Evelyn Lewis, of Grand Rapids, stood with her hand on his arm, urging him to join his sister and brother in law in a car outside.

Miss Lewis testified in today's inquest that Bellinger raised his right hand to his head as she clasped his left arm and urged him to leave. Then there was a flash as if a gun had been fired, she said, and Bellinger fell dead.

No pistol was found when Mr. and Mrs. Donald Pelkey, Bellinger's sister and brother in law, reached the room and they, with Miss Lewis, denied knowledge of its disappearance. A cartridge shell was found on the floor near the body.

No Arrests Made

Coroner Ralph Kernkamp said he did not believe the shot could have been self-inflicted. The bullet passed through Bellinger's skull, the coroner said, and lodged in the ceiling. The angle of fire indicated the gun had been held by a person who was either kneeling or sitting, he said. Sheriff Walter Stimel said he would make no arrests, pending further investigation.

Mr. and Mrs. Pelkey told of hearing the shot as they waited outside, but shed no light on the question of who fired it, or why. They said the boy apparently was in high spirits at a dance they attended earlier in the night, and on the ride home.

Orville Bellinger, the boy's father, said his son had pouted because his parents refused to get up and prepare him some lunch.

Associated Press Holds Annual Meet

New York, April 20 (AP)—Members of the Associated Press discussed at their annual meeting today the radio broadcasting of news gathered by the organization and instructed officers and directors of the Associated Press to "meet with every sympathy the attempt to correct the evils in the radio situation, about which representations probably will be made to it and other news organizations."

At the annual luncheon Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company would find its way out business depression by "the democratic road—by the thought and efforts of thousands of able, intelligent people." Frank B. Noyes, of the Washington Star, president of the Associated Press, introduced Mr. Gifford.

W. C. GRAVES DIES

Battle Creek, Mich., April 20 (AP)—William C. Graves, 51, advertising manager of the Battle Creek Enquirer-News, died today of Bright's disease. He formerly was president of the Chamber of Commerce. His widow and three sons survive him.

House of Commons Favors Repeal Of Sunday Blue Laws

London, April 20 (AP)—Members of the House of Commons who expressed themselves as anxious that the British Sunday be observed with all the rigor laid down in ancient blue laws, suffered a reverse in the House of Commons tonight.

After a hot debate which proceeded entirely along non-party lines, the bill empowering local authorities to grant licenses for moving picture theaters and certain other places of amusement to remain open on Sunday passed by a vote of 258 to 210 on second reading.

If the bill finally passes through its further stages it will actually only legalize a practice which has been in existence for a long time.

A recent case decided by the high courts, however, brought the question to a head, and it was pointed out in tonight's debate by Home Secretary J. R. Clynes, who introduced the bill, that Sunday opening must either be legally permitted or the blue laws strictly enforced.

Introducing the second reading of the bill, Home Secretary Clynes told his colleagues to consider that 1780 was not 1931.

Royalty in Edinburgh

Never within living memory have so many members of the royal family visited Edinburgh, Scotland, as in 1930. King George passed through the city twice in recent months. The queen was there several times while in residence at Balmoral, and visits also have been paid by the Prince of Wales, Princess Mary, the Duke of York, Princess Helena Victoria, the Duchess of York and Prince George.

Southerners may declare that May Queen Miss Mary D. Gunter, above, of Dodd College in Shreveport, La., is more beautiful than Miss Helen Manning, below, beauty queen at the University of Iowa, picked by Florenz Ziegfield. But let's not argue—there's glory enough for both.

Thermometers Will Drop, Government Forecasters Say

Kansas City, April 20 (AP)—Freezing temperatures were expected by government forecasters to follow tonight in the wake of snow flurries and wintry rains which banished balmy spring weather from the Rockies through the Missouri valley and southward to the Texas Panhandle today.

A temperature of 15 above zero was forecast for Denver, where winter and spring played tag today, and freezes, seen as a menace to early farm crops, were predicted for South Dakota, parts of Kansas and northwest and west central Oklahoma.

Snow fell today in Wyoming, Montana, eastern Colorado, western Nebraska, St. Joseph, Mo., and northern Oklahoma, in most sections following a chill rain.

Temperatures as low as 22 above zero were reported in the locality of Cheyenne, Wyo., 30 above at Goodland, Kas., 28 above at Rapid City, S. D., and observers expected close to freezing temperatures in parts of Texas tonight.

The rain, extending northward into Minnesota, enabled fire fighters to control a blaze in forest and brush which had burned over a thousands of acres.

Hoover to Attend Anniversary Party

Washington, April 20 (AP)—President Hoover plans to spend next week-end taking part in the annual pilgrimage to Cape Henry in celebration of the founding of the first white colony in America.

Unless government business prevents, he will leave for the historic tidewater section of the old Dominion Saturday afternoon or night and arrive in Norfolk Sunday morning. He will return to the capital Sunday night.

guilt or innocence of one of the defendants it must disagree on all. He told them they could not find one or two of the defendants guilty or innocent and disagree on the other or others.

Before the jurors were led to the conference room two of the original 14 were eliminated by lot. The jurors thus excused were Mrs. Gertrude Magee and Charles McQueen.

As a result of Judge Jeffries' charge the defendants will either face life imprisonment or be granted complete freedom. The court further instructed the jury that the state was not required to show motive in the slaying. Judge Jeffries cautioned the jurors about the circumstantial evidence presented in the case, remarking that each link of such evidence must be proven beyond a reasonable doubt. He said the importance of motive as a circumstance was for the jury to decide.

There was a rumor that the jurors had agreed on a verdict as to Pizzino and Livecchi but were in disagreement on Bommarito. The rumors lacked verification, however.

in Cuba and Haiti. It has been found much easier to strengthen the existing administration by indirect means than by taking the field against insurgents.

While the new policy of the American government is satisfactory to many members of congress, particularly the progressives, it is going to be criticized by Americans living abroad as a sign of diminished effectiveness of the American passport in foreign countries. To offset any such idea it will be necessary for the American naval forces to be concentrated near port cities and towns on both coasts of Nicaragua so that help can be extended promptly.

Monarchists Decide To Help Government

Lisbon, Portugal, April 20 (AP)—Portuguese monarchists still loyal to former King Manoel today offered unlimited support to the Republican government on the advice of Manoel himself.

In a message from London where he is living in exile the former king told his supporters:

"At this time when inexorable fate has forced King Alfonso from his throne my thoughts turn to our dear country—may heaven protect her—and to those faithful friends who never have forgotten me."

He urged upon all monarchists in Portugal the duty of defending the country's independence and integrity and maintaining public order as the only means of "achieving the union of all patriots of good faith."

Depositors Must Put Back Money In Spanish Banks

Madrid, April 20 (AP)—Seeking to stop heavy withdrawals of Spanish cash and securities, the government today decreed that depositors must restore their money to banks within thirty days or "strict measures will be taken against them."

Minister of Finance Indalecio Prieto said in an interview that many persons were withdrawing their funds for speculation abroad and thereby were lowering the values of Spanish securities.

"The government invites those people to restore their moneys to the banks" he said, "and gives them four weeks to do so. After that strict measures will be taken against them."

PRESIDENT OF C. & A. RESIGNS

Stockholders of Copper Company Vote to Move General Offices

Warren, Ariz., April 20 (AP)—Directors of the Calumet and Arizona Mining company left the presidency temporarily vacant today, after Gordon R. Campbell, of Calumet, Mich., resigned.

The president's resignation was announced shortly before the annual stockholders meeting at which a proposal to move the company's general office from Calumet to New York, which Campbell opposed, was ratified.

The directors, meeting at the close of the stockholders session, announced the question of the presidency was being held over for further consideration. Earlier it was stated a president would be chosen at the afternoon meeting.

Heated Proxy Fight

Edwin J. Collins of Calumet and James C. Rea of Pittsburgh, were elected vice presidents and James E. Fisher of Calumet was elected secretary-treasurer.

Rea succeeds Frank J. Kohlhaas of Calumet, while Collins and Fisher were re-elected.

The removal of the general offices to New York had been the subject of a heated contest for proxies since it first was suggested. The impending ratification by stockholders of the board's approval of the plan brought the resignation of Campbell and George Ruppe, of Calumet, a director, shortly before the meeting was called to order.

Campbell had been president since 1921. Thomas S. Lamont, of New York, a partner in J. P. Morgan and company, and Alexander C. Tener, of Pittsburgh, were elected to the board as successors in directorships of Campbell and Ruppe.

Curtis Advocates Deportation Of Alien Criminals

Washington, April 20 (AP)—Deportation of aliens attempting to overthrow the United States government was urged tonight by Vice President Curtis.

Addressing the annual convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the vice president also advocated deportation of alien criminals and racketeers and tightening up of present immigration laws.

The vice president spoke after the delegates had been welcomed to Washington by Mrs. Herbert Hoover. The first lady voiced hope for a successful session and expressed regret she could not remain only a short time.

A little later Mrs. Lowell F. Hobart, president general of the organization, advocated that the American navy be built up to the limit of the London naval treaty.

Siamese Royalty Given Reception

On Board Siamese Imperial Special Train, St. Paul, Minn., April 20 (AP)—A panorama of rural America behind them, the king and queen of Siam's special train sped eastward into Wisconsin tonight, after a brief stop in St. Paul.

Scheduled to arrive in Chicago Tuesday morning, the royal train will shortly afterward roll through the bustling cities of the east to its destination at Scarsborough, N. Y., where the Oriental potentate will rest from his arduous journey.

From the large windows of their solarium, the Siamese royal couple viewed America and American people who came with good will offerings from the small towns at which the train paused. At Enderlin, N. D., and at Glenwood, Minn., bouquets of flowers werep resented to Her Majesty by townspeople.

assessing both individuals and corporations on an income basis, would produce an estimated $30,000,000 a year, which is more than the present state property tax.

Must Work Faster

If the legislature hopes to finish its business at the customary time in the first or second week in May, strides toward the solution of the entire taxation and financial problem must be taken soon. There is a prevailing belief that once the income and sales proposals have gone to a record vote the puzzle will be simplified. If both plans are rejected, the legislature presumably will be prepared to set seriously to work on the budget, with the regular state property tax as the basis of financing the appropriations. Should special taxes such as an increased gasoline tax be adopted, the revenue could be turned into the general fund and the state administrative board could reduce the property tax by that amount. Such a measure could be considered without upsetting the general budget scheme, whereas the sales and income tax bills carry specific appropriations which would alter the entire budget lineup.

The University of Michigan mill tax appropriation remains one of the vexing problems on the legislative program. The house has the Callaghan bill proposing a limit of $4,500,000 for the institution instead of the more than $5,000,000 it would receive annually from the mill tax at the regular rate. Senator James T. Upjohn, of Kalamazoo, and other friends of the university have announced they will fight any cut if the house transmits a measure advocating a reduction.

Woods Won't Give Up His Winnings

Welland, Ont., April 20 (AP)—If anyone in the United States thinks he's going to take $886,630 away from the Clayton C. Woods, he has another think and a long wait coming.

Mr. Woods and his family, who sprang to affluence by buying the right sweepstakes ticket on the recent Grand National race, are in a cabin at Long Beach, near Port Colborne.

And that's where they plan to stay until they receive plenty of assurances. They won't return to their home in Buffalo or anywhere else in the United States until they are sure there will be no effort to deprive them of their winnings.

News trickled to the Woods cabin that some one in Buffalo had been talking of reviving an age-old regulation in an attempt to divide the money among the poor.

The Woods family says it is perfectly willing to pay the $225,000 in taxes the United States and New York State will probably demand, but it doesn't intend to have the remainder jeopardized.

Byrd's Famed Dog Is Critically Ill

Springfield, Ill., April 20 (AP)—Notified tonight that Igloo, the fox terrier that accompanied him on his South Pole explorations, was critically ill at Boston, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd cancelled three speaking engagements and prepared to start for Boston.

Byrd spoke here tonight. He was to have spoken at Lexington, Ky., tomorrow night, at Memphis, Tenn., Wednesday, and at Little Rock, Ark., Thursday. He planned to take a midnight train for Chicago and leave from there tomorrow for Boston. He understood Igloo has a serious intestinal complaint and is not expected to recover.

Grass Fire Serious—The Escanaba fire department was called out Sunday when a grass fire back of the fair grounds assumed serious proportions. The blaze moved in the direction of the Andrews mill, threatening log piles as it swept through the heavy grass. When weather and wind conditions are favorable, the fire department plans to burn over the remainder of the area to guard against danger of future fires.

coming next, or that it is almost time for the bassoons to take up the song while the violins dance on the rhythm of the piece.

Miss Lillian Luverne Baldwin, supervisor of music appreciation in the Cleveland public schools, has prepared special programs which form the basis of this study in the class rooms. She believes that all children should be taught to slip away into the land of make-believe once in awhile.

"Music is one of the best ways of all of going," she says. "For when we close our eyes and listen we can actually feel ourselves growing smaller and smaller with the fairies, stiff with the bent old gnomes, and fierce and brave with the giants."

Miss Baldwin's printed programs contain selections of the music, which the children are taught to hum and recognize. They are instructed in the instruments, also. Phonograph records supplement the classroom feature, as a means of letting the students become thoroughly conversant with a concert before they hear it played by the symphony orchestra.

Musical criticisms are a compulsory part of this new education. Miss Baldwin believes that a child must not only like or dislike a selection but have a reason for his reaction.

Many schools supplement their music education with concerts but Cleveland took the initiative in having a routine program as the basis of its training. A laboratory cycle of two concerts is used annually for a period of seven years, giving each student an opportunity to familiarize himself with 14 concerts.

39,000 Children Attend

Thirty thousand children from the public, private and parochial schools of Greater Cleveland are attendants at the concerts. Severance Hall, the new music home of the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra, will hold 1900 children, so the programs are repeated until each group has heard its own special concert.

The music which is taught consists of selections from operas. Mendelssohn, Grieg, Wagner, Mozart, and Tschaikowsky are familiar names to the students.

The concerts have been a feature of the public school work of Cleveland for 10 seasons. Chicago is now following this same system, known as the Cleveland plan. Smaller cities and towns are patterning their work along this line.

Adelle Prentiss Hughes, founder and manager of the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra, is responsible for the close tieup of music education which exists between the public schools and the Cleveland Symphony.

The longest daily non-stop train run is said to be that of the "Flying Scotsman," between King's Cross and Edinburgh, a distance of 397.7 miles.

GESSNER GIVES SPLENDID TALK

Kiwanians Learn Something of Modern Retailing Problems

"Modern Retailing Problems" was the subject of an interesting talk delivered by Charles Gessner of this city at the regular luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Ludington hotel yesterday noon.

Frank Caisse, proprietor of the Uno Hunting and Fishing Resort, entertained the club members for several minutes with a series of card tricks. Frank Aley and Jack Raymond also appeared on the entertainment program with saxophone duet numbers, and Bob Pryal gave another of his famous dialect stories.

Business Reward Near

"Retailing is the final cog of the economic machine," said Mr. Gessner in his talk. "All the finished products of the world are brought to the ultimate consumer through retailing, which is the greatest and largest division of the economic machine."

The business depression of 1930 has had certain benefits, according to Mr. Gessner, in that it has shown the value of good management. Citing the opinions of leading economists, he predicted that business recovery would be well under way in the fall, although there would not be much activity this summer. Business finds itself in a better condition during this period than in the slump of 1921 however, because of the present low stocks in the hands of the manufacturer and retailer. When business revival does come, it will mean there will be much activity all along the line as business endeavors to meet the demand of the consumers, Mr. Gessner pointed out.

Competition Changes

The retailing problem is not one of competition between different establishments in the same field, but rather one of competition between different segments of business as each group battles to secure the purchaser's dollar, according to Mr. Gessner. It is not the radio dealer against the radio dealer, but the radio against the refrigerator, automobile, clothing or food dealer.

To support this claim, Mr. Gessner presented figures from the 1930 federal census, showing that 30.50 per cent of total sales in Escanaba went to the automotive group, 24.23 per cent to food, 19.41 to general merchandise, 5.57 to apparel, and the rest to lumber, restaurants, furniture, household and other types of stores.

That Escanaba is forging ahead as a retail distribution point is further demonstrated by the census figures, Mr. Gessner stated, showing that net retail sales in Escanaba totaled $8,671,604, being exceeded only by one other upper peninsula city, Sault Ste. Marie, which had $8,948,863. He pointed out, however, that Escanaba, probably exceeds that figure if the sales of certain other concerns in the vicinity were included.

Unfair Legislation

There is no real chain store problem, according to Mr. Gessner. "There is room for both the independent and the chain," he stated, "since each caters to a different clientele. The future of both depends on good management, and neither has a decided inherent advantage. Some independent stores that are here today will be gone six months from now, and some chain stores that are here today will also be not with us then. It all depends on efficiency in management and service to the public."

The greatest problem facing the retail trade today is unsound legislation, Mr. Gessner declared. He cited the sales tax measure recently proposed in the state legislature as an example of discriminatory legislation, which put a burden on the retail business for which ultimately the consumer will have to pay. More efficiency in government, particularly state, county and city, instead of more taxation is the crying need, the speaker said.

Co-ed Reporter In Disguise Crashes Banquet for Men

Fayetteville, Ark., (AP)—"Walk on your heels—not your toes."

"Put your hands in your pockets. No. Not that way!"

"Let's see how you shake hands. Not that way! Grip a guy's hand like you meant it!"

"Show me how you draw on a cigaret. Good!"

"Don't talk too much and no one will suspect you are a woman."

Such was the advice given Mabel Clare Good, former editor of the Arkansas Traveler and girl reporter on the Fayeteville Democrat, who crashed the gate at the annual gridiron banquet of the University Men's Press club at the University of Arkansas.

With only the invitation committee's knowledge, Miss Gold, fitted out in men's clothes, not only crashed the banquet without anyone suspecting the presence of a girl, but passed by the doorkeeper, who expected her, without his recognition.

Prior to donning male attire she her dark hair trimmed boy's style and dyed red.

"There was one thing that was disappointing," commented Miss Gold afterward. "I had been led to expect something risque. But it was very tame. These men sure put out the bunk about their stag affairs. But I got an inside story."

Richard Sjolund, 42, married, living on a farm near Rock, is in a critical condition at St. Francis hospital where was taken Sunday forenoon after having been seriously burned when a gasoline torch which he was using while mending a gasoline tank, exploded.

Mr. Sjolund had drained all the gasoline from the tank which is used on a tractor and had used a cloth to wipe out the gasoline tank before he began to repair it. It is believed the fumes from the tank caused the accident.

Mr. Sjolund's clothes ignited and in tearing the clothes from his body he was badly burned. His back, abdomen and neck are burned deeply. His face and forehead were not burned as deeply as the body and his eyes were saved from the flames which enveloped him. His hands are also in a serious condition. EDITORIAL

THE FIRE HAZARD

UPPER PENINSULA fire losses in the past ten days are approximately two million dollars. And the fire hazard season is just beginning.

Lack of rainfall, accumulations of winter debris, and dry woods slashings are forming a dangerous menace to forest and town. The Upper Peninsula may be in for it this year if present conditions continue.

The greatest menace of all is the carelessness of human beings. Practically all fires except a few by lightning are caused by animals, and man is by far the chief offender. It is a regrettable thing that heavy losses of life and property seem to be necessary before many people learn to be thoughtful and careful in the use of fire.

Every consideration of respect for our own and our neighbor's welfare call for care with fire at every turn, and especially in the practically unguarded woods. When timber sawed or unsawed burns, everybody loses. A carelessly thrown match, cigaret or cigarette stub may mean loss of human lives or property. Eternal vigilance is necessary, and the ounce of prevention is well worth its pound of cure.

THE SPELLING BEE

THE Escanaba Daily Press is highly gratified with the results of its first venture with a spelling bee. Splendid cooperation has been received from school authorities throughout the district, and when the final bee is held here next Saturday night about sixty schools will be represented.

This newspaper has sponsored a good many enterprises believed to be of genuine public value in the last decade, but hardly any that they feel to have done more good, nor to have more thoroughly justified the effort and expense invested in them, than this spelling bee.

Teachers are praising the spelling bee idea. They report that the competition has stimulated a greater degree of interest in spelling and also developed greater ability. To be able to spell correctly is a fine educational attainment. Poor spellers, on the other hand, oftentimes make poor impressions that are lasting and injurious to them.

The best grade school spellers in the district will compete Saturday night for titular honors. It will be an interesting contest. The Daily Press extends a cordial invitation to its readers to attend.

CITY PERKS UP

EXPECTATIONS of a huge industrial development in Gladstone have served to arouse a spirit of optimism and progress in that city. This has resulted in an epidemic of improvements in the business and residential sections that has greatly enhanced the appearance of the community.

Merchants along Delta avenue are improving the interior of their stores, putting in new fixtures, installing ornamental fronts, and a number of flashy electric signs are being erected in front of business establishments. The building of dwellings has already started, and other citizens are planning to start as soon as there are definite signs that the industrial project is under way.

Gladstone is surely perking up. And all this goes to prove that any community can be progressive if it has the optimism and ambition to be that way.

THE RUSHTON TIMBER BILL

THE Rushton timber bill to provide for the establishment of commercial forest reserves, and for the administration and taxation of the same, is a very excellent bill in the ends which it seeks to accomplish, but it gives little consideration to the immediate necessities of those political units, organized counties and townships, whose chief taxable property is constituted in timber lands.

The bill, should it become a law in its present form, would result in a ruinous increase in taxation on other classes of property in such communities.

timber wealth of the peninsula. Remove the timber lands from the general tax roll, as it is proposed in the Rushton bill and these counties will speedily find themselves in sad financial straits.

The Rushton bill provides that timber owners, who elect to come under the terms of the law, shall pay an annual tax of ten cents an acre, and the state pays a like sum or a total of 20 cents per acre. This removes the property from the general tax roll and exempts it from all other taxes. When the tax is collected 20 per cent goes into the general fund of that county; 25 per cent to the contingent fund of the township and the balance to the school district. When timber is harvested the owner pays a crop stumpage tax of ten per cent of the stumpage value, based on the current rate at time of cutting. For the purpose of administration the state appropriates $20,000 the first year, $30,000 the second year and increasing appropriations each year up to $100,000.

For the purpose of illustrating the hardship and injustice this bill would impose on other taxpayers within those political divisions whose taxes from timber lands constitute their main source of public revenue. The News is taking McMillan township in Luce county. The total assessed valuation on all classes of property in McMillan township is $5,211,475. There are 200,000 acres of timber lands in this township and their assessed valuation is $2,635,750 or slightly over one-half the total assessed valuation of the township. The tax rate for 1930 in McMillan township was $36.40 per thousand, and the total taxes levied against these timberlands was $95,941.00.

Assuming that the owners of these 200,000 acres of timber lands elect to come under the terms of the Rushton bill, they will pay to the county and township $20,000 a year in taxes and the state will contribute a like sum, leaving the farmer, the home owner and the small business man to make up a deficit in revenue of forty-five or fifty thousand dollars annually, depending on the tax rate.

It needs no prophet to fortell what would happen under such circumstances. County and township boards would be compelled to increase the tax rate to a ruinous figure in order to meet current expenses. More farms would be abandoned and go back to the state for taxes. Business men, struggling to keep their heads above water, would be forced out of business unable to pay their taxes, and the small home owner would be crushed beneath the burden.

Timber land should be relieved of some of the tax burden it now bears, but the relief should not come at the expense of the little fellow in the timber counties. The Rushton bill should be amended so that the burden will be more equitably distributed.—Newberry News.

FRANCE'S "AMERICA DAY"

On April 21, 1917, Paris celebrated "United States Day" in honor of our country's entrance into the war. Through the celebration was begun April 20, the activities on this day included a reception to Ambassador Sharp, a procession to Lafayette's statue and exercises in the City Hall. The Stars and Stripes were unfurled from the Eiffel Tower, the City Hall and other municipal buildings.

Alexandre Millerand, president of the French Maritime League, which organized the celebration, made an address in which he said:

"Yes, history will assign to Mr. Wilson a place among the great statesmen of all time, for he has been able, in a memorable document, to make clear the ideal reasons why honor condemned neurality and commanded war in order to assure to humanity the definitive blessing of peace."

THE PILGRIMS

Four men set out to climb the peak.
And one was strong, and one was weak,
And one was wise, and one a fool.
Four men set out one morning cool,
And I, a fifth, who went along
To judge between the wise, the strong,
Because I knew the fool, the frail,
Would never conquer hill and gale.

"Will strength be first to touch the sky,
Or wisdom win the top?" thought I.
"One has his learning and his views,
But what is wisdom without thews?
Yet what are all these arms and thighs
Without the knowledge of the wise?"
But for the weak, the fool, let fall
A tear, who had no chance at all.

The strong went plunging on ahead,
But picked so hard a path to tread
The wise man left him far below;
And yet the wise man studied so
The path, the peak was lost to sight.
The weak came patiently that night
Upon the top, and on a stool
Upon the top, he found the fool.

The weak, who walked the slowest pace,
Was only second in the race;
The fool was first, who should be last.
Because he laughed at rocks he passed.
Now, I'm a little of all four,
Strong, weak, wise, foolish, less or more.
And I (I said that there were five)
Was there to see the fool arrive.

MAD MARRIAGE

(By NEA Service) By LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

CHAPTER XLI

For an instant Gypsy hesitated. She was aware that Gibson was watching her eagerly. There was a faintly bantering light in his eyes. It was as though he were challenging her. "Are you game to go? Will you take the dare?"

The girl's chin lifted. "Yes," she said, "if there's fresh air—cool, fresh air—to be had on the Somerset road let's go there. I haven't had a breath of it for a week."

While she was still speaking Gibson had swung the car around. The rain drops were coming faster now.

He seemed to be an expert driver. Gypsy watched the ease with which he handled the car. Surely it was a new one. The brown paint glistened and the upholstery looked so fresh.

"It's a new car, isn't it?" she asked.

"Had it two weeks. Bought it as soon as I got back from the coast."

"It's too bad to have it out in a storm like this."

"That's what I got it for. I get my money's worth out of a car. Buy 'em to use 'em. Would you like to drive?"

"Oh, no! I've had a little experience with a battered up flivver but I wouldn't think of trying to drive a car like this! Jim never lets me touch the roadster."

"That so? You ought to learn. Practice is probably all you need. Any time you feel in the mood I'd be glad to come along as instructor—a poor one I'll admit."

Gypsy's smile was a bit nervous. "I'd better not," she said, "unless you want your lovely coupe to be a complete wreck!"

"Well, I'd take my chances. By the way, how is Jim these days? Haven't seen him."

"He's about as usual. Working too hard, I think. He hasn't had a vacation yet and I think he needs it."

Gibson nodded. "That always was Jim. Plugging away! You know the trouble with him is he forgets to enjoy life. What's the use of living if you have to work all the time? That's the way I feel about it—"

"Oh, Jim doesn't work all the time. He likes fun."

"Does he? Well, I'm glad to hear that. Say, he made quite a success of a case last spring, didn't he? Girl accused of murder."

"Yes. The Roberts case. It was a wonderful victory."

"I remember now. Read about it in a San Francisco paper. The girl was pretty, wasn't she? What became of her?"

"After she was acquitted she left Forest City and went back to her relatives. She has a better job now and I think she's happy. Of course it was a terrible experience. It will be a long time before she'll get over it."

Gibson nodded. "And how do you like being a lawyer's wife?" he asked, "when the customers are young—and pretty?"

She wished he wouldn't look at her that way. She wished he wouldn't say such things. It was more Gibson's tone than the words to which she objected.

But she tried to answer lightly. "Oh, do you think I need to worry?"

"I'll say I don't! Not you."

They were on the Somerset road. It was a narrow ribbon of highway winding a circuitous route on gradually rising ground. The rain poured down steadily. As the coupe swung around the curve the wheels skidded.

It was all over after a breathless instant. Gibson had control of the car. They were moving along smoothly again.

Gypsy, who had seen it all in one terrorized moment, drew a deep sigh. "Oh," she said, "for a moment I thought—!"

"So did I!" Gibson said sharply. "Well, I won't let that happen again, I assure you!"

They drove silently for a few moments. Gypsy was thinking that if the young man had been watching the road instead of looking at her the near-accident would not have occurred. Probably he knew how to drive all right when he kept his mind on driving.

"Do you notice how much cooler it is out here?" he asked presently.

"Much cooler," she agreed. "I wonder if the rain is going to last all evening. The sky doesn't seem any lighter."

"You can't tell about these summer storms. Anyhow, the longer it lasts the more pleased some people will be."

"Our garden needs it." Gypsy began and then she stopped. She wished she had not come for this foolish drive. She should have waited until the storm was over or taken a taxi. Now she was doing the very thing for which she had condemned Jim.

Suddenly she wondered if Frank Gibson had heard gossip

The Van's Harbor Colts is the name of the new baseball team to be entered on the list of amateur teams of Delta County this season. James Ward is captain and manager, G. H. Gilbert is pitcher, Nels Rousseau, catcher, and L. Cousineau, first base. Mr. Ward expects to complete his line-up this week.

The navigation season at the Escanaba port formally opened Sunday evening when the Steamer B. F. Berry came in through the honey combed ice field and tied up at the St. Paul dock. Although the inner bay was still well covered with ice the Berry experienced little difficulty in breaking a channel through the honeycombed ice. The Steamer Kingston sailed from Milwaukee last night and is due to arrive at the St. Paul dock today.

The Sand Point light in charge of L. A. Rose, went into commission Sunday evening and will remain during each night until the close of navigation.

A number of changes in the personnel of the vestry of St. Stephen's Episcopal church were made at a meeting held Monday evening. The newly selected vestry men are Capt. George Shipman, W. J. Clark, C. W. Mallech, Charles W. Haase, Dr. H. B. Reynolds, and F. H. VanCleve.

Miss Mayme Ehnerd entertained a group of friends at her home last evening in honor of Miss Viola Primeau.

The Eleven Foot Shoal lightship is being fitted out preparatory to being taken out to its regular mooring place. A supply of coal was placed in the boat yesterday and she will be provisioned and made ready to be towed out as soon as the floating ice fields have left the bay.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of two articles by Dr. Fishbein on infected sinuses.

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

A person with chronic infection of the sinuses is likely to wonder what the possibilities are for his relief. Dr. Lee M. Hurd is convinced that people with chronic sinusitis never recover without treatment.

Many of them have low-grade infections in which surgical treatment is not advisable, and these patients can be helped by drainage, frequent washing, and the application of various antiseptic substances.

In other cases, however, the infection of the sinus persists to such an extent that it involves danger to surrounding tissues. Cases are known in which the sight of an eye has been lost because of infection in a neighboring sinus. There are other instances in which the infection extends from the eustachian tubes to the ear and thus involves the mastoid process. The constant inhalation of pus may set up bronchitis or pneumonia. The continuous slight fever results in a loss of vigor and in disturbances of digestion.

There are even cases in which loss of memory or neurosis has occurred because of the constant infection and irritation. It has been well established that an infection in the nose may be carried by the blood to other parts of the body, resulting in serious inflammations of joints, infection of the heart and the kidneys and even meningitis.

In children, chronic infection of the sinuses may be associated with enlarged adenoids and tonsils. The removal of the adenoids and tonsils may eliminate the source of the infection and end the trouble. At the same time it should be emphasized again that correction of the diet to include a proper amount of vitamins A, B, C and D is of importance.

There are, of course, cases in which the same child may have an enlargement of the tonsils and adenoids and associated with this a sensitivity to various protein substances. Obviously attention to both conditions is necessary if complete recovery is to be secured.

In older people, when the antrum is involved, the large sinuses on each side of the nose, it may be necessary to remove all infected teeth in relation to the antrum and to clean out the infected bone at the roots of the teeth. An opening into the antrum from the mouth permits drainage and the healing of the diseased membrane.

If such measures fail, it is possible to employ a surgical procedure, which involves a wide opening of the sinuses or even complete obliteration; such methods are, however, so delicate that they should be undertaken only by those especially competent and then after the most careful consideration.

ALL CAN VOTE ON BOND ISSUE

Special Escanaba Election May 4 Not Limited to Taxpayers

Notices have been posted announcing the special election to be held in Escanaba May 4, at which time local voters will pass upon a proposal for issuing $180,000 in bonds to finance needed sewage plant construction here. The proposed construction includes a sewage treatment plant, sewage force lines, main collection sewers, a new Ludington street pumping station, and a pumping station in the vicinity of Eighteenth avenue south.

All citizens of the city who are qualified to vote in other city elections may vote at the special election. Under the provisions of the city charter, it is not necessary to be a taxpayer to vote in a bond issue election.

Based on past population increase figures at Escanaba, plans for the sewage mains and force lines are designed to take care of the city for 30 years, and the sewage treatment plant will be designed large enough for 15 years hence, with provisions for additions and extensions any time they are needed.

The site selected for the treatment plant is more than a mile from the residential section of the city, on a level tract of land near the junction of Willow and Portage creeks. The acreage is owned by the city, and has been extensively improved during the last few months through the removal of brush and the clearing out of the stream beds. It has topographical features which make it highly suitable for a park site and playground of the future.

A map showing the location of the proposed improvements is now on display in the lobby of the city hall.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT

One of the greatest classics and biggest box office successes of American stage history, Eugene Walter's "The Easiest Way," has been made into a talking picture which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will present for two days beginning today at the Delft Theatre.

The original stage star of "The Easiest Way" was the talented Francis Starr, who toured in it for years. The screen version will present that popular young blonde stellar light, Constance Bennett, in the central role of Laura Murdock.

Constance Bennett hardly needs an introduction to the thousands who have come to love her for her work in "Three Faces East," "Sin Takes a Holiday" and "Common Clay." This charming daughter of the stage star, Richard Bennett, has become one of the really great drawing cards of the cinema.

"The Easiest Way" is considered by critics one of the finest discussions of a woman's emotional problem the play world has known. It revolves around the question, should a man forgive a woman's missteps? The general action concerns three people, "Laura Murdock," played by Miss Bennett; the human, acquisitive but hardly villainous "Brockton," done by the suave Adolphe Menjou; and "Madison," whom Laura comes to love, assigned to the clever and popular Robert Montgomery.

E. H. S. Again Put On Accredited List

Escanaba high school again has been placed an the accredited list of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. The local school has been recognized by this association continuously since 1909.

Before any school can be considered for accrediting by the North Central Association it must be on the highest list of schools approved and accredited by the school authorities of this state. In addition it must meet the high standards which the association maintains with respect to the school library, laboratories and instructional equipment and apparatus, school records, the requirements for graduation, instruction and spirit, salaries of teachers, the training and preparations of teachers, the teaching load, pubil loads, and the school's program with reference to physical education and to its athletic relationship with other high schools as determined by the state athletic association.

The North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools is an accrediting agency comprising twenty states and is the largest regional accrediting agency in the United States. The object of the association is to establish closer relations between the secondary schools and the institutions of higher education within the north central states and in such other territory as the north central association may recognize. All decisions of the association bearing on the policies and management of secondary scho ols and institutions of higher education are understood to be advisory in their character.

Rain Helps to Keep Forest Fires Down; One Near Papermill

Light showers of rain proved a welcome arrival in the local forest fire situation, and scattering fires were reported under control yesterday, with cooler weather lightening the high hazard which prevailed during the previous week.

Stockpiles of pulpwood at the Escanaba paper mill were threatened by blazes running over the plains to the north and west of the mill Saturday night. The fire had assumed serious proportions about 7 p. m., and a large force was called out to assist the conservation department crew in curbing the blazes. The paper company sent out a crew of men, and another group was organized by Sheriff Elmer Swanson. The fire was checked before it reached jack-pine areas adjacent to the mill property.

Fires west of the city along Portage creek were still smouldering in scattered places yesterday, but were being watched by the conservation department forces and kept from spreading.

Organizations Will Observe Music Week

Music organizations of the Escanaba public schools will join under the supervision of Miss Ruth Sundwick, supervisor of music, and R. P. Bowers, head of the department of music, in an observance here of the eighth annual National Music Week, May 3 to 9.

The program in Escanaba has not been definitely decided upon as yet, but announcement of the observance of the week will be made as soon as plans are formulated.

The keynote of the nation-wide celebration will again be active participation in music in addition to merely listening to it, and the rally call will be "Hear Music—Make Music—Enjoy Music.'

In issuing the announcement concerning this feature of the 1931 celebration C. M. Tremaine, secretary of the National Music Week committee, made this statement: "Each year the National Music Week is a medium for advancing some particular idea. In last year's observance the underlying motif was summed up thus: "Make Music Your Friend From Youth to Age,' the objective being the continued participation of our people in music 'From Eight to Eighty.' It is expected that the enduring benefits of that phase of the 1930 Music Week will be matched by the results of the coming celebration, with its fostering of the get-together spirit in music. As has been the case in the past Music Week will be the initial objective of a large number of new musical groups which will continue functioning as permanent community assets. Furthermore, we feel that the Music Week's fostering of family music-making in the home and of large community events will result in a growth in neighborliness and self-expression which will add greatly to the life enrichment of the individual."

Right of Married Woman to Work Is Upheld by Leader

Port Huron, Mich., April 20 (AP)—Regardless of the constitutionality of such laws, proposed legislation in Michigan and other states to restrict opportunity for employment for married women should not be passed, Mrs. Bina West Miller, supreme president of the Woman's Benefit Association, said in a statement issued at the headquarters here.

Mrs. Miller, who is founder of the association, set forth arguments against such measures which she declared to be particularly applicable in times of depression and unemployment. The statement said:

"I am firmly opposed to laws, such as have been introduced in Michigan, which would deny employment to married women. This is a fundamental, basic right of women, to seek employment or enter business on their own right, whenever they think they can better themselves by doing so. Any law which restricts that right is wrong and against public policy.

"Some people think that a woman must step down and out when she marries. That is not my idea at all. Others think women should give way to men in the business world.

"That was not my idea when, in 1892, I founded the first fraternal insurance order for women. People told me then that it was unthinkable for women to manage a business by themselves, but after 39 years of success I guess they're ready to concede women can do it.

"From the very first, the Women's Benefit Association has employed women exclusively, married or single—it made no difference to us. Many of our most valued employees started work with us as single women, were later married and kept right on in our ranks, loyal and devoted soldiers.

"Would I fire a woman for marrying? Yes, if you would fire a man for marrying.

"I realize that many of those who object to employment of married women have the best of intentions. They hope to give more employment to men who are heads of families and who need work sorely at this time.

"But I offer a better solution of unemployment evils than that, and our Association has offered it since the depression has been felt. When the husband is out of work, let the wife try to see if she cannot earn some money to tide over the emergency.

Field Work

"Our association has employed hundreds of married women in all parts of the country in our field work since the depression started. I could point out for you hundreds of families who have not had to ask for charity nor go without, because the mothers were able to earn a good income in insurance work and at the same time keep up their homes, although the husbands and fathers were not able to find work.

"Let us each do what we can in this way to tide over families during the present crisis which now shows every sign of passing and not try to cure an economic ill by passing laws whose purpose is to violate the right of women to equal opportunity with men. I think such laws are unconstitutional, but whether or not they are, they should not be passed."

Favorite Recipe

Betty Ann

A delicious luncheon dish, and a particularly tasty answer to a bridge luncheon menu problem is the recipe for ham timbals coming from Mrs. Woodhall, of Gladstone.

Ham Timballs with Mushroom Sauce

One-half cup corn flakes, rolled; 1 1-3 cups milk; 2 cups chopped cooked ham; 1 tablespoon chopped parsley; 4 eggs; ½ teaspoon salt; 4 tablespoons butter.

METHOD: Melt butter, add corn flakes which have been rolled to the size of bread crumbs. Add milk, and cook for five minutes, stirring constantly. Add ham, parsley and eggs, slightly beaten. Season with salt. Turn into buttered individual molds, filling at least three-fourths full. Set in pan of hot water. Cover with buttered paper and bake thirty minutes in a slow oven, about 300 to 350 degrees.

Serve with mushroom sauce. Garnish with parsley. This makes six or eight medium sized molds.

Mushroom Sauce

Four tablespoons butter; 4 tablespoons flour; 2 cups stock; ½ cup mushrooms, fresh or canned; salt and pepper.

If fresh mushrooms are used make stock of peelings and stems and three and one-half cups of water, and cook for ten or fifteen minutes.

If canned mushrooms are used the stock from them or any other brown stock may be used.

Make brown sauce with butter, flour and stock, add mushrooms and cook for about five minutes. Do not cook too long.

May Day, Child Health Day, Is Of Importance

May Day—National Child Health Day, which has been observed now for eight years, is a national holiday of distinct significance, in the opinion of Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, pastor of the new Riverside church in New York City, who is known to millions of people in every part of the country through his Sunday afternoon radio talks.

"It is practically the only day set aside especially by congress when we as a nation look unitedly to the future instead of the past" says Dr. Fosdick. "It is a day when our citizens should ponder on what the country is going to be like twenty-five or fifty years from now on whether our sons and daughters when they grow up will represent strength or weakness.

"The ideal is that every child should be given the chance to be everything that he would wish to be were he responsible for his own well being from babyhood. In America there is no excuse for the physical and educational handicaps that still prevent the full development of many of our children. We could if we would, swing the doors of opportunity wide before all the children of our people" averred Dr. Fosdick.

"National Child Health Day is a symbol of this ideal," he said.

Interesting Talk Is Given Before Business Women

Dedication exercises on Friday, April 17, marked the formal opening of the new wing of Michigan State Sanatorium, Howell. Governor Wilber M. Brucker officiated at the exercises.

Michael Madigan Dies In New York

The news of the death of Michael F. Madigan, Sr., in the Bronx, N. Y., which occurred last Saturday, while not unexpected, was received here with deep regret by old time friends, particularly among the railroad men with whom he had been associated for many years.

January, 1930, Mr. Madigan, then roadmaster for the L. S. & I. railway, retired from active service after being in the employ of the company for thirty years, during which time he made his home in the city of Marquette. Official business called him to Munising frequently, and he became a familiar figure here as well as at Marquette and all along the line of the L. S. & I. where his business occasioned him to call.

Last September Mr. Madigan and his wife went to New York City to live with their sons. Mr. Madigan was stricken with paralysis, January 5, 1930, from which he partially recovered. Easter Sunday he was again taken down with another stroke and it was then apparent that he could not recover. From the beginning of his last illness he was unconscious almost all of the time, but he did recognize his son John, of this city, who was at his bedside when he died.

Mr. Madigan was 71 years of ago and was born at Prairie du Chien, Wis., and was raised on a farm at Waseca, Minn. At the age of 19 years he started his railroad career, being employed by the Minneapolis & St. Louis Ry. In 1901 he went to Marquette and entered the employ of the L. S. & I. Ry., remaining with that company until his retirement in January, 1930. It is remarkable to note that Mr. Madigan's mother, Mrs. Ellen Madigan, is still living in good health at the very advanced age of 97 years, with her son John and daughter Bridget on the old farm at Waseca, Minn.

Besides his mother, sister Bridget and brother John, Mr. Madigan is survived by his wife, eight sons and one daughter. The sons are James, Michael and John, members of the Munising Hardware company, of this city, George and Joseph of Chicago, and William, Eugene and Daniel, of New York City, linotype orperators and salesmen. The daughter is Mrs. Henry Dahlmeier of Minneapolis.

The remains were brought to Marquette for interment and the funeral will be held this forenoon from St. Peter's Cathedral, a nephew, Rev. A. R. Doran, of Brownsville, Minn., will offer solemn high mass, assisted by Msgr. H. A. Buchholz and Rev. Fr. Petranec.

Mr. and Mrs. James Madigan and children, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Madigan, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Madigan, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hausler, Mr. and Mrs. John Dresden, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Goss and Mayor C. G. Kemp and wife will attend the funeral from this city.

Mr. Madigan was a man of strong character, honest and upright in all his dealings with his fellow men, the type of man that is numbered amongst our best citizenry, and his death is deeply regretted by all who knew hom.

CHANGE IN HANDLING COAL

The city scales are being moved from the old city hall to the rear of the fire hall. In the future the weighing of the city coal will be done by the driver of the fire truck, payments being made for coal at the city hall to the city clerk. In the past this job has been handled by Louis Rowe, at the old city hall.

When the city purchased the building on Elm street for a city hall, the old location was used for a coal office with a clerk in charge. Under the new arrangement the city will dispense with the services of the clerk at the coal office and the street commissioner will read the water meters. Commissioner Coates has also authorized the erection of an electric light at the coal dock. The services of a nightwatchman for the coal pile was dispensed with April 1.

Lauri Anderson Is Arrested for Attacking Wife

Newberry, April 20 (Special)—The charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than the crime of murder was lodged against Lauri Anderson today following an alleged attack made by the man on his wife Sofi on Friday night or Saturday morning. Mrs. Anderson is in the local hospital suffering from numerous bruises, cuts and contusions caused by the alleged beating given her by her enraged husband.

At first the affair has something of the appearance of a murder trial. A neighbor reported to the officers that he had heard a woman screaming in the Anderson house northeast of Newberry during Friday night. Sheriff Turnbull and Trooper Davisson of the state police visited the place, found blood all over the floors, bloody clothing, blood on Anderson's boots and mackinaw, but no woman. Anderson told a story that his wife had gone to Munising and the blood was from a cut hand when she was preparing a rabbit for cooking. A telephone call to Munising sent Sheriff Runsat to meet the train on which she was supposed to have taken passage and back came the message that she was not on it.

The officers spent some time hunting about the farm and in the woods before they discovered that she was in the local hospital, taken there when her condition became frightening and entered under the name of Mrs. Neimi.

Mrs. Anderson is painfully but not seriously injured. She has a knife cut on one wrist, her head, face and entire body bruised. She told the officers that her husband had come home on Friday and demanded that she give him money with which to buy tobacco and liquor and that he became very angry when she refused. He then locked the door of their house and told her he was going to kill her, proceeding then to beat her into unconsciousness.

Arraigned in justice court this morning Anderson pleaded guilty and was bound over for trial in circuit court in June. Unable to furnish the $5,000 bail he will remain locked up until his trial.

FORESTERS TO MEET

A tri-state meeting of federal foresters and superintendents will be held in Newberry starting on April 24 in the offices of the conservation department on West McMillan avenue. The meeting is supposed to last for several days. U. S. men from federal forests coming here from Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan for a conference and to become acquainted with each other and with the various methods of fighting fires and protecting timber under their charge. The dry weather of the first part of the month made it a question as to whether such a meeting should be held at this time but the rains which have fallen since Saturday have made it possible to go on with the plans. Between twenty and thirty men are expected to be present, probably under the leadership of some official from the headquarters office in Milwaukee.

Lynott urged every member of the local post to turn out for the local observance of Memorial Day, in which the Legion will take a leading part. Mr. Lynott, officer in the Canadian army from 1914 to 1919, related some of his experiences in the great war, and called attention to the handicaps suffered by troops because of unpreparedness. As a recognition of the sacrifice paid by those who gave their livse in war, and as a testimonial of the Legion's part in patriotism, he called upon every ex-service man to take an active part in the Memorial Day observance at Escanaba next month.

Commander Henry Breault announced preliminary plans for the Memorial Day program, in which the Legion will poin with other patriotic and civic organizations of the city. The committee in charge of arrangements will be T. J. Lynott, chairman; T. F. Kessler, Med Beaudoin, Tom Gander and Mike Blnk. All members of Cloverland post who are not supplied with the official Legion cap were asked to place their order with the post adjutant at once, so that the caps may be received in time for the Memorial Day parade. It is hoped that every man who participates will wear the caps.

A total membership of 356, the largest in the history of the post, was reported by the membership committee last night. This total places the Escanaba Legion unit far ahead of posts in cities of similar size, and makes it the largest Legion post in the upper peninsula.

Two Boxing Bouts

Plans for "poppy day", which will be observed May 23, the care and planting of trees in "Memory Lane", the national convention in Detroit September 21-24, and the outfitting of the Legion drum and bugle corps with uniforms, were among the other matters discussed at the session. The meeting was marked by the largest attendance of the year.

Following the business session an excellent program was presented by a committee composed of E. Kauphusman, A. Geartts, C. Hansley, F. James, J. La Fleur and Ivan McCauley. Earl Weissert performed on the accordion and harmonica, and selections were presented by the Elks Troubador quartette, composed of Dr. G. J. Gleich, Clayton Todd, Vaughan Belanger and Joe La Crosse. The program closed with two boxing bouts, Jack Finn acting as referee and Elmer Swanson as timer. Chuck Pennings and Bul La Fave fought a draw in the opener of three two-minute rounds, and Francis Shimberg came through even in a bout of four two-minute rounds with Phil Brazeau.

Due to the length of the program, the committee was forced to cancel two other numbers, a tap dance and an instrumental trio originally scheduled for the entertainment series.

Rains, 87, a prominent business man of this district for more than sixty years, died yesterday, Friday, April 17, 1931, at his home on Spruce street east, after an illness of two years with complications incident to old age. Mr. Rains had been critically ill for several days and members of his family had been notified. Death came at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Born at Loch Rains, St. Joseph Island, May 6, 1843, Hoel Rains was the son of Major William Kingdom Rains of the British army, one of the leading pioneer settlers of the country. His father named many of the places on the island and vicinity.

Appointments Legal

Iron Mountain—That the appointment of four city officials at the first regular meeting of the new city council Wednesday night was a regular proceeding in every way and that the question of salaries for the officers had no legal bearing upon that act, was the statement today of Ray Derham, city attorney.

Derham was interviewed on the strength of a communication from a former alderman and also upon other comment which followed on the heels of Monday night's speedy session of the new council—the first organized meeting conducted by Mayor R. F. Dundon for the new administration.

At that meeting Ray Derham was named to succeed E. J. Dundon as city attorney; Otto B. Olson was appointed in the place of Ed. Harvey, on the board of water works commissioners, and Dr. J. L. Browning and Archie P. Farrell were reappointed health officer and assessor, respectively.

Will Attend Parley

Iron Mountain—Francis Kangas, 17, senior at the Kingsford high school, holder of the coveted Eagle rank, in scouting and winner of 27 merit badges in his work as a member and senior patrol leader of troop 10, has been selected to represent the Iron Mountain area of Scouting at the conference of Eagle Scouts to be held April 25 and 26 at Northwestern University, Chicago. It is the first meeting of the kind ever held.

Francis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kangas, 426 Balsam street, Breitung.

Fair Plans Discussed

Iron Mountain—Officers and directors of the Dickinson County Menominee Range Agricultural association will meet at 12 o'clock luncheon Thursday noon at the Norway hotel to discuss plans for the 1931 fair to be held September 5, 6, and 7 at the Norway fair grounds.

Most of the free acts for the entertainment have already been booked. Negotiations are being made to engage Chet Austin, parachute jumper, as an additional feature. Austin was in the city yesterday to confer with James P. Stewart, secretary of the association, about his act. His number includes a parachute jump of 500 to 600 feet from an airplane in front of the grandstand. He is accompanied by two women who take part in ladder and wing work.

Aids Horse Trade

Menominee—W. H. Horan of Odebolt, Iowa, is a visitor in the county this week, having brought a car load of horses to Wilson for William Kell, Jr. This is the eighth car of horses he has delivered to Kell this year. The horse business is better now than for several years, according to Mr. Kell, who credits the soldier loan for it. Many of the farmers who were either in the war themselves or had enlisted sons in the service are using their bonus money to buy horses.

Ford Mill Busy

Pequaming—The Ford mill at Pequaming will go on a five-day a week basis Monday morning instead of operating three days a week as it has for the last several months. The same crew will be employed under the new schedule. The plant is engaged in cutting hemlock.

Logs which were gotten out during the winter months will be towed to the Pequaming mill by a Ford tug. The logs have been stored on the shores of Lake Superior at Misery Bay and near Redridge.

Investigating Fire

Menominee —Investigators in Menominee on the suspected incendiary origin of the Wells fire, were attempting today to learn the identity of the occupants of a small sedan parked on Broadway and headed north shortly after the fire started. The occupants were watching the fire when Fred Gosling drove up and asked them if they had turned in the alarm. They explained they did not know where to go to turn it in. Mr. Gosling then turned in the alarm.

The investigators are anxious to find the occupants of the sedan to learn from them further details of the appearance of the fire when it started. It appears that probably they were the first persons on the scene near the spot where it started. Mr. Gosling said he did not know the occupants but thought they may have been from up the county on their way home.

Deputy State Fire Marshall Thomas Jeffrey is in charge of the local investigation and may be reached by telephone or personal call at the Hotel Menominee. Mr. Jeffery said this morning that he was meeting with a desire to help on every hand, but that he had nothing to report publicly. He said he has encountered an intense local feeling of hostility against the person or persons responsible for the fire.

Six Persons Injured

Marquette.—Six persons, three boys and three girls, were painfully injured last night about 9:30 when the car in which they were riding left the road and turned over in a ditch on the Mangum road at the intersection of that road with U. S.-41. The car was owned by Ed. Sullivan, of Ishpeming, and was being driven by Ted Tippin, also of Ishpeming. Others in the car were Ralph MacDougall, of Ishpeming, and Elsie Maki, Freda Chevoni and Minnie Hill, all of Negaunee.

State police who investigated the accident were told by Tippin that as their car neared the intersection, he was blinded by the lights of an approaching car and in attempting to make the turn onto the Mangum road, his car went into the ditch.

Riding Academy

Marquette. — The Marquette Chamber of Commerce has been advised by Clyde R. Terry, president of the Michigan Military academy at Menominee that 20 horses from the academy stables will be brought to Marquette for the summer season. He also proposes to have an expert instructor with the stable and instruction in riding will be given during the summer.

Mr. Terry expresses appreciation of the cooperation extended to his officers by the Marquette Chamber and states that the Military Academy will try to make the riding academy an asset to the community.

The horses to be brought here are all good looking bays and the stables will be located at the F. H. Vandenboom farm adjacent to the course of the Marquette Golf and Country club.

Glorifying Yourself

By Alicia Hart

If you are reducing a double chin or firming a sagging one, why not give that old chin a lift?

I do not mean a surgical one I mean strap it a half hour or so while you rest to get refreshed for your evening date. Or strap it up and sleep with it suspended.

Now, if you have in mind lifting your chin helpfully, remember one thing. Chin straps, like corsets, should fit or they are no good.

Since every chin has its own curves or angles, I suggest you make your own tie-up, with cheese cloth wound around under your chin, up over your head.

This is the way to give your chin a hand up the ladder to youth again:

1. Exercise your chin by rotating the head according to directions I have given you.

2. Cleanse the face and neck carefully with hot oil that is massaged in and then wiped off.

3. Use a pad of cotton dipped in strong astringent to pat your face all over, re-dipped in the astringent, to pat up under your chin, all up your neck clear around under the ears.

4. Spread the pad out, dip it into astringent again and slap it up under chin and hold there while you start your three-inch gauze banding around your chin, up in front of your ear, across the top of your head and down in front of the other ear and around under your chin again. Wind it around two or three times, finishing on top, having it as tight as you can stand it without hurting you. Don't get it so tight you can't leave it on for at least 20 minutes. A half hour is even better. Lie down while you leave it on and relax.

Don't expect your neck to look up and smile like 16 at you the first day or the second. But if you religeously exercise, massage and give it this strapping lift, it will take on new strength and firmer contour and make your heart rejoice.

A. T. Sohlberg of this city has just completed an 8,000 word manuscript which has been accepted and is to be incorporated in a three-volume book entitled "The Swedish Element in America," that is being published by the Swedish American Biographical society, headquarters in Chicago.

The work covers the history of the Swedish people in America for the past 300 years and their contribution to the upbuilding of the New World. Mr. Sohlberg's paper covers the state of Nebraska, where he resided for many years.

The work is being edited by Eric G. Westman and the list of associate editors includes Dr. G. A. Andreen, Augustana College, Dr. Jacob Bonggren, Dr. Amandus Johnson, Dr. David Nyvall, Consul G. N. Swan and Dr. C. G. Wallenius.

The work which is in preparation will consist of about three thousand pages and is the most ambitious undertaken by the people of the Swedish race in this country.

To Cover U. P.

Mr. Sohlberg has been asked to contribute another chapter to cover the work of the Swedish people in the upper peninsula of Michgan.

To that end he requests that any information of pioneers of the upper peninsula that is available be furnished him as quickly as possible.

The portion of the book which is to include the story of Michigan will be ready for press in about two weeks so the time is very brief, and if the upper peninsula is to be adequately represented in its pages the information should be made available immediately.

PERKINS

Perkins, April 18. (Special)—The third baseball meeting of the season was held at the school on Friday evening. Practically all of the young men were present and a great deal of interest and enthusiasm was shown. A fund raising drive has been successfully carried on and a substantial sum has already been raised. Byron Whitney who has managed the team for two seasons declined this year because of his farm work. W. B. Moreau also declined the request to act as manager. H. C. Gibbs finally consented to act as captain and field manager, while the financial end of the organization will be taken care of by James Mc Namara and Byron Whitney. The community is back of the boys and everyone is glad to see the splendid spirit shown.

Mr. and Mrs. Ludger Bazinet sold their farm on M-35 between Perkins and Brampton with the express intention of returning to their native place in Canada which they had left thirty years ago. After their farm was disposed of they decided to try some other means of livelihood, so they took up their residence in Escanaba where Mr. Bazinet engaged in different occupations and where they remained until March of this year when they were again seized with the desire to take up farming in Canada and packing up their personal effects they embarked for Canada, but on reaching their destination they found the roads piled high with snow and the fields seemed rocky and barren, so after prospecting around for a month they boarded a train back for Cloverland. Mr. Bazinet spent a few days driving through the various farming settlements of Delta county and at length made up his mind to see the owners of his old farm. The two men were not long in coming to an agreement and papers were made out on Thursday afternoon and the Powell farm is again the property of Mr. Bazinet. The family will move in at once and the Powell family will return to Gladstone. Mr. Bazinet is making arrangements to farm extensively. One more proof of the fallacy of the idea that "distant fields are greener."

RIALTO

Two of the world's greatest voices and two of the screen's most vivid personalities are seen in "New Moon," "Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's transcription of the stage hit, so-starring Lawrence Tibbett and Grace Moore, and now playing at the Rialto Theatre.

"New Moon" in its picture form is far different from the original stage version although preserving all its salient parts and its most popular songs.

The story deals with a Russian princess who plays with fire in the person of an impassioned lieutenant only to find that she has burned herself in the intrigue and dangerous circumstances which follow upon her fiance's discovery of the "affair."

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. J. I. DAY

Resident of City for 34 Years; Funeral on Wednesday

Mrs. John I. Day, 63, a resident of Gladstone for the past 34 years, passed away at the Midway hospital in St. Paul Sunday morning. Mrs. Day, accompanied by her husband had gone to St. Paul early last week and on Wednesday submitted to a surgical operation for removal of goitre. The operation was successful and her recovery expected, but complications developed which coupled with heart trouble caused a decline, the end coming at 1:35 o'clock Sunday morning.

The body was returned to this city arriving here yesterday morning and was taken to the Swenson Brothers Undertaking parlors. Later in the day the body was taken to the family home at 1311 Wisconsin avenue, where it will repose until the hour of services.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon from the home, Rev. Carl E. Berger, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Escanaba, officiating. Interment will be in the family plot in Fernwood cemetery.

Mary Ann Knowles was born Nov. 1, 1868 in Bogart, Ont., where she was raised and received her early education. She came to this city in 1897 and in the same year was married to John I. Day of this city, to which union was born one son and one daughter.

She is survived by her husband, son Raymond and daughter Marion, all of this city. Three sisters, Mrs. Florence Welch, Mount Pleasant, Mich., Mrs. Jane Wilson, Waterford, Ont., and Mrs. Clark Lusk, Widham, Ont., as well as one brother George Knowles also survive. Efforts to locate the latter have thus far proved unavailing.

The deceased was a member of the Royal Neighbors of America and of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Honorary pallbearers will be chosen from among the members of the latter organization.

"TRANSMITTING BRAIN"

London—There will be no eavesdropping on trans-Atlantic telephone conversation now as a result of the invention of an electrical "transmitting brain" and "translating brain." One machine takes a telephone conversation and garbles it so that an eavesdropper hears nothing but gibberish. The other rearranges the sounds into intelligible form.

about her and Jim. Was that why he had suggested the drive? Was that why he looked at her with that smile that seemed to say more than it should? She had always heard men were worse gossips than women.

"I think," Gypsy said, "that we should be turning back now."

"All right. Just as you say. We'll turn at the next crossroads."

Silence settled between them. Gypsy was thinking about Jim and Marcia. She would talk to Jim after dinner that evening. It must all be settled very quickly. She began to plan what she would say.

Afterward she could never tell exactly what had happened. There was the moment when she saw the other car swerve crazily. Gibson swore. Gypsy felt the coupe reel and screamed.

She had never seen the man who was bending over her. He had a round face and wore spectacles.

"Do you think," he was saying, "that if I help you you can stand?"

Gypsy moved and a twinge of pain shot through her left foot. She discovered that she was lying on the ground. A man's coat was under her and her clothing was half-drenched. The rain was still falling.

"What—what happened?" she asked in a small voice.

"Another car crashed into yours. How do you feel now?"

"My foot hurts," Gypsy told him. "The left one." She tried to draw herself up to sitting position but the movement brought a quick exclamation of pain.

"Here—let me take your arm," the man said. "See if we can't make it easier. Are you ready now?"

Gently he lifted her. The left foot ached but Gypsy set her lips and endured it. Her shoulder pained her too. She looked down and saw that her arm was bleeding.

"That's nothing," the stranger said, noting her glance, "just a scratch. Pretty badly jolted aren't you? Don't try to stand on that foot! Lean against me."

The girl did as she was told. Her entire body seemed to be a mass of aches and bruises. She was cold. Now she was beginning to remember what had happened.

The brown coupe sprawled in the ditch at the side of the road. A few yards back stood a large touring car.

"Where is Mr. Gibson?" she asked. "Was he—hurt?"

The man nodded toward a figure at the other side of the coupe. "Your friend seems to be knocked out," he said. "If we can get you into my car I'll see what I can do—"

Cautiously, leaning on the stranger's arm, Gypsy limped toward the touring car. There were questions she wanted to ask but it was all the girl could do to set her teeth and endure the agony.

"Think we'd better get you to a doctor," the man said as he noted the grimace when she settled herself in the rear seat of the touring car. "That foot pains a lot, doesn't it?"

She nodded. "You'd better—go back to—Mr. Gibson—"

A tall figure in clothing that had once been white came hobbling toward them. The stranger turned.

"Well! You look all right. I thought you'd taken the count!"

Gibson rubbed his head. "What was the damn fool trying to do?" he grumbled. "Kill us? Where's his car?"

The stranger shook his head. "The other fellow didn't even stop," he said. "Must have been drunk judging from the way he was driving. I was behind and saw him weaving from one side of the road to the other. Crash must have come when I was on the other side of the hill. I didn't see it. When I got here the other car was way down the road and yours was in the ditch."

"Roadster, wasn't it?" Gibson asked. "I didn't have a chance. The idiot deliberately ran into us." He burst into vigorous profanity.

"My name's Mason," the other man volunteered. "Fred Mason. I live in Somerset. The young lady seems to have hurt her foot badly and I think she ought to get to a doctor."

"Are you hurt, Mrs. Wallace?" Gibson demanded, for the first time showing interest in the girl.

"It's my ankle. The left one," she told him. "Otherwise I guess I'm all right."

"You'd better let me take you two into Forest City," Mason suggested. "You'll have to have help with that car anyhow. Looks to me like a bad smash-up."

"Looks like a wreck all right," Gibson agreed. "I'm Frank Gibson, Mr. Mason, and this is Mrs. Wallace. If you could take her back to town and let me off at the nearest farm house it would certainly be a big favor. I can telephone the garage and get someone out here before dark—"

Mason nodded. "O. K. with me," he said. The two men climbed into the front seat of the touring car and Mason started the engine. In 10 minutes they drew up beside a farm house. Gibson walked to the door and knocked. A moment later someone answered. He waved, signaling the others to go on, and entered the house.

Gypsy's foot was throbbing. At every jerk and jolt as the car moved along she clenched her fists and tried to keep from crying out. Tears came into her eyes and she did not bother to brush them away. Sometimes the pain was so great she could not help moaning.

As they neared the city limits Mason turned. "Where do you want me to take you, Mrs. Wallace?"

"I'd like to go to my own home," she said, and gave him the address.

"Don't you think you'd better stop at a doctor's office?"

"No, thank you. All I want is to get home!" She leaned back and closed her eyes. If only this would prove to be a night mare! If only she could open her eyes and find that the hideous afternoon had been a dream!

It was not a dream. The pain in her foot told her that. She looked out and discovered that the rain had stopped. Dusk was gathering. It must be nearly six o'clock.

"This the place?" Mason asked, slowing the car before a brick dwelling.

"No. The next house. There's a driveway leading in."

A moment later the car halted. Mason got out but before he had reached the porch the front door opened. Jim Wallace appeared.

"Who is it you wanted to see?" Jim asked. He looked at the car. "Gypsy—!" he exclaimed excitedly. "What's happened? What's the matter?"

"Mrs. Wallace was in an accident," Mason explained. "I came along a few minutes later and she asked me to bring her here. I'm afraid one of her ankles may be broken or badly sprained. You'd better call a doctor."

Jim Wallace rushed past him. "Tell me what happened, Gypsy," he demanded.

"It's—nothing, Jim. I'll be all right."

He helped her from the car, his arm around her. For an instant she steadied herself against him, looking up into his face.

"It's nothing," she repeated in a weak voice. Immediately she fainted.

McMillan, April 18. (Special)—Mr. and Mrs. Bohn Musgrave and family, former McMillan residents are expected to arrive here by motor Saturday on a visit to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Musgrave and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown. Mr. and Mrs. Musgrave are now residing at Kalkaska, where Mr. Musgrave is employed as county agricultural agent.

Mrs. J. B. Tamblyn is spending the week-end in Newberry the guest of her mother, Mrs. Lillian Van Mere.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Harvey and family left Thursday to take up their residence at Flint, Mich.

Master Herbert Smith, son of Rev. and Mrs. C. T. Smith, who recently returned home from the Perry-Spinks hospital at Newberry, is still confined to his home, although his condition is reported as satisfactory.

Mrs. M. B. Purdy accompanied by Miss Edith Brown of Newberry motored to the Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Friday where they were the guests over the week-end of Miss Jewel Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Foster of that city.

Our new commissioner is already on the job with a crew of men cleaning up the streets and carting away the winters accumulation of rubbish from streets and alleys. Most of the McMillan residents are taking advantage of these lovely spring days and are busy with rake and shovel cleaning up and putting their premises in a spic and span condition, an evidence of civic enterprise and pride that is wholly commendable.

E. C. Underwood, supervisor of McMillan township was a business caller in town Thursday at the home of Columbus township supervisor, Henry Heidebriecht.

Mrs. J. W. Holbrook of Seney was the guest of Mrs. Harry Smathers Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Skinner and daughter, Mrs. M. B. Purdy, motored to Newberry Wednesday evening to attend a pot luck supper and dance given by the O. E. S. in the Masonic Temple.

H. J. Skinner's hunting and fishing camp located on the Tahquamenon river north of McMillan was broken into last week by unknown thieves.

Thefts of hunting and fishing camps have been of rather frequent occurrence during the past year. The thieves so far have been able to make their escape without leaving any clues that could lead to their arrests. That their hunting lodges and camps are not safe from the plundering of thieves is very discouraging to those who have built and outfitted them in order to have a comfortable place to stay when they wanted to spend a vacation in the woods. A camp owned by Mr. Wm. Foreman of Birmingham has also been broken into recently.

Fred L. Reynolds of Marquette was a caller at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wallsteadt Thursday.

Mrs. Emerson Smith and son, Hugh, spent Wednesday in Newberry visiting Mrs. Smith's mother, Mrs. Tena Hahka.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown are expecting Mrs. Brown's mother, Mrs. Robert Moor of Kalkaska, Saturday. Mrs. Moor is well known here, in Newberry and Lakefield, having lived in McMillan a number of years prior to moving to Kalkaska.

Mrs. Henry Heidebriecht entertained the members of the 500 club at her home Thursday evening. Three tables were in play, high honors going to Mrs. J. B. Tamblyn and low to Mrs. H. J. Skinner. Lunch was served at the close of the game.

Mr. and Mrs. N. K. Zeigler left Thursday for Detroit to attend the funeral Saturday of Mrs. Zeigler's uncle, Mr. Emil Lothamer. Robert and Marion Nelson accompanied them and will visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Nelson of that city.

Jack Skinner, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Skinner, arrived Thursday evening from Ann Arbor, where he is a student at the University of Michigan, to spend a short vacation at the home of his parents.

Legume Hays Best For Schoolcraft Farmers

Legume hays, especially alfalfa, red clover and alsike clover produce the largest amount of high quality hay per acre, says D. L. Clanahan, farm crops specialist. These hays not only give the largest tonage per acre, but also the greatest amounts of protein and total digestible nutrients per acre. Only a small percentage of the present hay lands of the upper peninsula are seeded to these hays which means that timothy or wild hay make up the majority of our hay. According to yields which have been checked it requires six acres of timothy to yield as much protein as one acre of alfalfa.

There is little doubt but what every farm has land which with a little extra preparation and care will produce this, best of hays—alfalfa. However, it may take some time to lime the soil and arrange the cropping system to grow alfalfa while every farmer could use red clover or alsike instead of pure timothy in their seedings this spring. It must be remembered that lime, good adapted seed, a firm seed bed and inoculation together with a well drained fertile soil are essentials of alfalfa growing. The red clover and alsike clover will grow on land which does not contain as much lime as is required by alfalfa, but this does not mean that lime will not increase the yields of these clovers as well.

Emergency Hays

Plans can be made to include in this spring planting program a crop of either peas and oats or vetch and oats, the former being adapted to medium to heavy soils and the latter to sandy soils.

Either of these crops yield well in both protein and total digestible nutrients as well as in tons per acre.

Quality in Hays

Quality in hay is measured by its green color, the amount of leaves retained, and its fineness. It may be secured by cutting at the right stage and by proper curing.

Time of Cutting

Alfalfa—One-tenth to three-fourths bloom.

Clover—Full bloom until heads start turning brown.

Sweet Clover—Just before blooming.

Timothy — Medium to full bloom.

Peas and Oats—When peas start forming.

Vetch and Oats—When vetch is in full bloom.

36 FIGHT FIRE NEAR HUNTSPUR

Intense Blaze Burns 120 Acres at Blaney Jct. Over Week-End

A severe forest fire which broke out early Saturday afternoon in the vicinity of Huntspur, about a quarter of a mile north of Blaney Junction, ravaged approximately 120 acres of woodland before it was extinguished late Sunday afternoon by a crew of 36 men under the direction of M. A. Williams, newly appointed fire warden here. Two shacks at the Peter Nelson camp were burned to the ground in the blaze which fire fighters said was more intenso than any which occurred in this vicinity last fall.

The conflagaration started in slashings which were piled up at the Nelson camp at 1:30 p. m. Saturday and quickly spread through the adjoining timberland. Volunteers from this city worked until late Saturday night and resumed their labors again at four o'clock Sunday morning. No estimate has been made as to the damage incurred.

The local fire department was called out on the State road Monday morning at 2:45 o'clock when a barn belonging to Joe Henry was razed to the ground. Many Manistique residents, believing that the blaze was serious, went to the scene to view the spectacle.

Mr. and Mrs. Sig Sandstrom and son, Richard, and P. Duchaine, Gladstone, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Sandstrom. They were accompanied on the return trip by Miss Ella Sandstrom who will spend a few days visiting in Gladstone.

New York, April 20. (AP)—The stock market was a hit and miss affair today. A last hour rally filled in some of the holes made by indifferent earlier selling and prices closed irregularly higher. Volume dwindled to last week's low levels, aggregating 1,600,000 shares.

The Saturday advance proved to have been only a flash in the pan so far as its effect on today's early quotations was concerned. Initial quotations did offer a slim majority of small gains, but the covering movement which the previous session's upturn had suggested did not develop. Instead, prices soon began to ease. It was notable, however, that the leaders, with two or three exceptions, were very reluctant to decline and a break by United States Steel to 129¾, a new low, was virtually ignored by other pivotal stocks. Steel showed a net loss all day and the loss of 2¼ points represented exactly the amount of Saturday's gain.

Tobacco Issues Soar.

Elsewhere, few important stocks were down as much as a point net. There was outstanding strength in the tobacco shares, American Tobacco B soaring 7 points and holding most of the gain. General Motors, American Can, General Electric, Borden, Woolworth, National Biscuit, Allied Chemical, Pennsylvania Railroad, Baltimore & Ohio, Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck were up ¾ to 1½. Auburn won back most of a 23 point break. Industrial Rayon and Ingersoll Rand, both down a dozen points at one time, cut their declines to 8.

Traders read attentively the remarks of President Gifford of A. T. & T., he not only expressed confidence in the future but said his company's statisticians, who keep close tabs on business currents, had reported immediate signs of improvement. Also to be considered was the statement of President Farrell of U. S. Steel, that the corporation's March business had shown material gains over the discouraging January and February results, and that given a better operating ratio the company would have "a reasonably good year" with prices as they are.

One of the day's important news items was the announcement that France was sending $3,500,000 in gold to New York—the first important shipment since February, 1927, or before the stabilization of the franc. In the last two or three weeks there has been definite evidence that the end of extensive French imports of the precious metal was at hand and that the trend was to be reversed. France, able to stand off the world depression while she was receiving gold in large amounts, has begun to feel the effects of economic conditions in other countries.

New York, April 20. (AP)—The bond market established a new record for dullness this year today when the total sales on the stock exchange amounted to $6,456,000 par value. Sales during the two hour session on Saturday amounted to $4,454,000.

Notwithstanding the restricted trading in all groups, an irregular price movement was apparent. Net changes among foreign bonds were more narrow than usual. Brazilian federal obligations made net gains as high as 2 points but issues of the city and state of Sao Paulo were generally lower. Bolivian 7s of 1958 and the 8s of 1947 reached new lows following the announcement that interest coupons due on May 1 would be paid in part. Most other foreign bonds made slight changes usually on a few sales. Issues of the United States government moved within a narrow range.

Railroad loans eased off gradually but trading in them was more restricted than heretofore. St. Paul Adjustment 5s were active, however, and reached a new low. Public utility obligations were dull also.

A syndicate headed by Harris Forbes & Co. is offering the unsold portion of $32,000,000 of 5 per cent bonds of the Associated Electric company. The bonds mature in 1961 and are priced at 97½.

A new issue of $2,000,000 of 5 per cent bonds of the Associated Telephone company is being offered by Bonbright & Co. and a syndicate at 101¼.

Building — Construction contracts awarded in the 37 states east of the Rocky mountains during the first half of April totaled $168,370,200, F. W. Dodge Corp. reports. Public works and utilities took the lead for the period with $73,832,700. Non-residential building, with a total of $52,944,300, followed, and residential building amounted to $41,593,200.

Copper—A reduction of a quarter of a cent in the export price of copper to 10.05 cents a pound has resulted in a resumption of foreign buying. Sales for the opening day of the week aggregated 3,000,000 pounds for foreign account. Domestic buying remained small. The reduction brought the export to the equivalent of 9¾ cents a pound in the domestic market.

Sheet Steel — Production of sheet steel increased during March, with operations at 61.1 per cent of capacity, compared with 192,218 tons, at 57.2 per cent of capacity in February, the report of the national association of flat rolled steel manufacturers shows. Unfilled tonnage increased during the month to 583,280 tons as of April 1, compared with 343,349 tons as of March 1.

Zinc—Buying of zinc continues small, with prime western quoted at 3.62½ to 3.65 cents a pound. East St. Louis, the lowest price in more than thirty years. The price compares with a quotation of 3.70 cents a pound Friday.

Automobiles—Some automobile producers already are making operating plans for May, and while few increases are in sight, trade circles feel that there will be fewer reductions than usual for that time of the year. It was pointed out that sold inventories of both new and used cars not only are low, but they have not risen in proportion to the increase in April production over March. The head of one company said that the technical position of existing supply and demand is such that if business generally were on the upgrade his company would be warranted in boosting its May schedules fully 25 per cent.

The total farm income for 1930 is expected by the department of agriculture to be about $9,950,000,000.

LIGHT TRADING ON CURB MART

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, April 20. (AP)—The curb market fluctuated irresolutely today in the dullest trading since Feb. 6.

The day's turnover of 332,500 shares was about 175,000 less than Friday's turnover. The more active shares generally moved in a narrow range, but some of the lightly traded issues advanced substantially.

In the industrials, two characteristically erratic issues made wide gains. Aluminum Co. of America pushed up 9½ points, then lost 3 points of its rise. Parker Rust Proof, which reacted sharply and its upsurge of a few weeks ago, sold up more than 10 points, and closed near the best. Cheseborough Manufacturing advanced 7 to a new high and Marion Steam Shovel sold at 6, up 3 points.

Neptune Meter dropped 5 to 18, the year's low, and Mead Johnson lost nearly 4. Welch Grape Juice and Park Davis, infrequently traded issues, declined about 2 to new lows.

Utilities and oils moved narrowly. Electric Bond and Share gained 3-8 of a point, while Niagara Hudson lost ¼. In the oils, Cities Service and Indiana were virtually unchanged at the finish, while Vacuum was down ¼.

Inauguration of a 28-hour night and day tri-motored airplane service, which enables passengers to lunch in San Francisco on Monday and dine in New York on Tuesday, is the culmination of five years of planning by W. E. Boeing, above, pioneer operator of air mail lines. Mr. Boeing submitted the low bid for carrying mail between the west coast and Chicago five years ago. Since, his company has expanded to such an extent that planes on affiliated lines have flown 25,000,000 miles.

Jesse Harper is Named Director at Notre Dame

HELD POSITION BEFORE ROCKNE

Veteran Will Not Coach Athletic Teams, School Officials Announce

South Bend, Ind., April 20 (AP)—Jesse Harper, for whom Knute Rockne played football and later assisted, will return to Notre Dame May 1 to again become director of athletics.

Announcement of Harper's acceptance was made by the Very Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, University, following a telephone conversation from Ashland, Kas., today.

Harper, who became athletic director and coach of all major sports at Notre Dame in 1913, will not engage in active coaching, but will handle the administrative affairs of the athletic department. Under him, Heartley (Hunk) Anderson, senior coach, and Jack Chevigny, junior coach, will direct football; George Keogan will continue as coach of basketball and baseball with Dr. John P. Nicholas coaching track.

Resigned In 1918

Notre Dame's ascent to major football importance began under Harper in 1913 and continued at his direction with Rockne as his assistant from 1914 to 1918, when he resigned to assume charge of his father's ranch at Sitka, Kas. Rockne was considered too young for the job, but Harper prevailed upon Notre Dame officials to give his assistant a chance.

Harper was graduated from the University of Chicago, where he was a star under Amos Alonzo Stagg, Sr., in 1904. When Rockne became his assistant at Notre Dame, they evolved the famous shift from formations taught Harper by Stagg. Harper's football teams made great records. During his five years they won 33 games, lost five and tied one.

Was Cage Coach, Too

His 1913 eleven, with Rockne catching Dorais' forward passes, was undefeated, winning seven contests. The 1914 team lost only to Yale and Army, while the 1915 squad won six games and lost one, the latter to Nebraska by a touchdown. In 1916 eight victories were marked up, with Army spoiling a perfect season. Nebraska defeated Notre Dame by one point in 1917, Harper's last team.

As basketball coach his teams won 57 games and lost 17. In 1916 Notre Dame won ten straight.

Harper, who has continued in the ranching business, had indicated he would not accept the post but decided to return after being urged by Father O'Donnell and Notre Dame alumni.

Strib-Schmeling Battle to Open Cleveland Arena

Cleveland (AP) — Large-scale crowds with a craving for the spectacular will have at their service some ingenious engineering devices at the new Cleveland Municipal Stadium, which will be opened here July 3 with the Schmeling-Stribling championship bout.

Some of the unique plans for operation have been revealed by George H. Bender, stadium manager, who said it will be second only in seating capacity to Soldiers' Field at Chicago.

The structure, the only one in the country to be operated exclusively by a municipality the size of Cleveland, will have 82,000 permanent seats and room in the field for 40,000 more, permitting such things as championship bouts to be witnessed by 122,000 spectators.

Double decking of seats will make it the most compact stadium of its size in the country, Bender said.

The methods of bringing voices and other sounds close to the ears of the auditors will be the most unusual feature. The audience will be so well provided with load speakers that ordinary conversation spoken in any part of the stadium will be heard by each member of the audience as plainly and distinctly as the voice of the man in the next seat.

To each auditor the sound will come from all directions from loud speakers planted throughout the stands, Bender said. To accomplish this a complicated network of telephone lines is being laid.

The lines also will make connection with the pipe organ in the Public Auditorium, about a square away, so the stadium audience may hear its music. The organ will be used to accompany vocal soloists and choruses at the stadium, the director of the chorus directing the organist through remote control.

Floodlights strong enough to permit a golfer to watch the course of the ball if he drives it at night in the stadium field will be provided, Bender said, permitting nocturnal baseball and other sporting events.

The seats in the stadium will be roofed over. A canvas covering for the whole field, which measures 475 by 320 feet, is being considered, Bender said. He said it could be stretched across the field on cables when any event that requires a closed space is staged.

Provision also is to be made to heat and ventilate the stands.

Two super-roadways, to cost $300,000, one on West Third street and the other on East Ninth, will be provided to transport motorists to and from the stadium, which is being located on the lake front in downtown Cleveland, Bender said.

He expects the structure to be completed by July 1.

Speaker Broadcasts Cubs Games On WLS

Speaker

Chicago (AP)—If there is anything to specialization, Tris Speaker should be good at his new job.

The one time "Gray Eagle" of the Cleveland outfield this season will broadcast a play-by-play account of the home games of the Chicago Cubs and White Sox over WLS-WENR daily at 2:45 (CST).

If there is anything the gray-haired Texan should know it is baseball. His experience in the game dates back to 1907, the year he joined the Boston Red Sox.

The high spot in Speaker's career came in 1920 when he led the Cleveland Indians to a world's series victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Speaker last appeared in baseball in 1930 as manager of the Newark club of the International league for a part of the season.

CARDINALS WIN FROM CUBS, 3-2

Bottomley's Circuit in Sixth Ruins Close Pitching Battle

Chicago, April 20 (AP)—Sunny Jim Bottomley's home run in the sixth inning today gave the St. Louis Cardina's a 3 to 2 victory over the Cubs.

Bob Smith was pitching and the hit ruined a well pitched game and gave the Cards the leadership of the National League as well as two out of three in the series. Bottomley also drove in another run, while an error by Woody English let in a run in the fourth. Burleigh Grimes yielded ten hits but kept them well spaced.

The Wolverines accumulated three victories and one tie out of the six games played.

Henigan Captures Boston Marathon; DeMars Is Fifth

Boston, April 20 (AP)—After failing ten times, James P. Henigan, little 30 year old Medford runner, today won the thirty-fifth running of the Boston Athletic Association marathon from the best field that famous classic has attracted in many years.

Smiling Jimmy, father of five children, ran and walked the 26 odd miles from Hopkinton to Boston in 2:46:45 2-5, the slowest winning time since 1909, when Henri Renaud, of Nashua, New Hampshire, won the B. A. A.'s thirteenth race, a 25 mile affair. Henigan broke the tape two minutes ahead of Fred J. Ward of the Millrose A. A., New York, who made a gallant finishing drive, coming up from fifth to second place during the last five miles.

Karl Koski, the New York Finn and one of the greatest marathoners in the world, finished third, as he did last year. His time was more than six minutes slower than that of the victor.

David Fagerlund, Koski's Finnish-American A. C. teammate, placed fourth and Clarence DeMar, the 42 year old Keene, N. H., teacher and seven times winner, came home in fifth place. DeMar, the popular favorite, could not explain his failure.

"It was not the heat," he said. "I liked that. I can't explain. Nothing seemed to click for me and I had no fight."

RED SOX WIN

The Red Sox defeated the Wild Cats, 40 to 20, in their diamond ball game, played Monday, near the St. Paul docks.

About 7,500,000 tons of salt are produced each year in the United States, 30 per cent being obtained from the evaporation of brines, either natural or artificial.

Brines from the Great Salt Lake in Utah contain as a rule somewhat over 20 per cent solids, and of this about three-quarters is common salt.

Jimmy Foxx Believes Cleveland Will Give Athletics Hard Fight

BY EDWARD J. NEIL

Yankee Stadium, New York, April 20, (AP)—Jimmy Foxx, the last "X" marking the spot where many a baseball body has been stretched by his big bat, stuck his game left leg out into the sunshine and watched the turbulent Yankees tune their batting eyes in practice for the second game of the series with the Athletics.

Jimmy Foxx

"Yes they can hit," he said, "but what will they use for pitchers?"

Cleveland Looks Good

"They're uncertain in spots, these Yankees, and you can't win pennants that way. Look at Tony Lazzeri out there; how'll he go over a full season at third base? How about second base and Chapman's fielding? Look at left field. They've got two men playing out there.

"Nope, for me I'll take Cleveland. That's the club we'll have to beat. They've got a hitting club. They've got pitching. They're young and tough. Cleveland will be dangerous every step of the way."

Jimmy, in uniform but still incapacitated by a set of torn ligaments in his left knee suffered in the Washington series, expects to be out of the hospital squad and back at first base for Connie Mack by game time Wednesday. In the meantime he has a chance to sit and ruminate in the sun and so he gets time to think about this American league pennant race.

"Now here's how I figure Washington," he went on. "They were pretty good last year but they weren't good enough to win. They'll be pretty good again this year, no better and no worse, and still they won't be good enough to win. Joe Judge and Sam Rice aren't getting any younger and they aren't getting any better, either.

"As for us, I think the Athletics will do better than ever.

"We had our share of the tough breaks and injuries last year and still we won all right. Rube Wallberg has found himself again. And don't forget Mule Haas, Jimmy Dykes and Bing Miller didn't hit within fifteen or twenty points of their normal strides last summer. This year they're right again and we're going to be that much tougher.

"Hank McDonald, the coast boy, will help our pitching staff a lot. Lefty Grove is a wonder, a team in himself. George Earnshaw is the same old George. We've got real strong reserves. What more could we want?"

Connie Mack, the ancient sage, nodded wisely.

"We haven't been hitting," he said, "but we will. I'm sure of that."

Thoroughbreds Win In Feature Races

New York, April 20 (AP)—Thoroughbreds, which campaigned over the winter turf, showed to an advantage again today as they swept three of the four feature races run over the tracks of New York, Maryland, and Kentucky.

At Havre De Grace, Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Falcon, and W. E. Caskey, Jr.'s Mynheer scored a grand slam in the twin feature races. Sun Falcon came through with a smashing triumph over W. E. Caskey Jr.'s William T. in the Mayflower purse and Mynheer showed the way to a smart band of runners in the Virgian purse.

TRAPSHOOT WINNERS

In the trapshooting events Sunday afternoon trophies were awarded in three events; there was no competition in Class A. In Class AA the big spoon went to Bob Henderson; Class B spoon to William Robertson, and Class C to L. Jenkins.

In the list of trophy winners for the previous week that appeared Sunday, H. Bonno was accredited with winning a spoon. A. F. Aley was the winner of the Class B trophy.

DETROIT BOWS TO CLEVELAND

Indians Hop on Hogsett and Hoyt for 14 Solid Blows

Cleveland, O., April 20 (AP)—Hopping on Waite Hoyt and Elon Hogsett for 14 solid bingles, the Cleveland Indians evened their series with the Detroit Tigers today by winning 9 to 3.

The Indians' attack included triples by Hunnefield and Vosmik, while a second home run in two days by Stone featured Detroit's 12 scattered hits off Willis Hudlin. Vosmik, sensational outfield recruit, continued his batting spree with two hits and a walk in five trips to the plate, and contributed a circus catch that robbed McManus of a hit in the eighth.

Gehringer Scores

Johnson singled in the Tiger first inning and Stone singled in the second, but is was not until third that a run crossed the plate.

In that inning, Harvey Walker singled after Hoyt had gone out and Johnson was safe on Hudlin's fumble. Walker was caught off second, but Gehringer and Alexander singled, scoring Johnson. Gehringer raced home on McManus' double and Alexander went out attempting to score.

Miss Helen Hicks Wins Medal Honor In Golf Tourney

Hot Springs, Va., April 20 (AP)—The medal in the qualifying round of the Old Dominion women's golf championship tournament was won here today by Miss Helen Hicks, of Hewlett, L. I., with a brilliant round of 39-39—78.

Her score equalled the course record recently established by Miss Diana Fishwick, British amateur champion. Three three-putt greens prevented the long-hitting golfer from setting a new mark for the course. Miss Hicks got well over 200 yards on her tee shots, and was deadly with her second woods and irons.

Mrs. Opal S. Hill, of Kansas City, western woman's champion, pressed Miss Hicks closely for the medal, going out in 42 and returning brilliantly in 38 for an 80 and second low score.

Giants and Braves Split Doubleheader

Boston, April 20 (AP)—The Giants and Braves divided honors in their patriots' day double header, Bill McKechnie's boys coming back to win the afternoon battle, 1 to 0, after the Giants had taken the morning tussle, 4 to 3.

A wild pitch by Bruce Cunningham provided the Giants with the winning run in the eight inning of the morning contest.

Golfing

BY ART KRENZ

Should one reach for the ball at address?

Reaching for the ball causes a tension in the spinal column which must be avoided in the golf swing. One is more apt to slice with this stance due to the flat swing.

No doubt you have often noticed how much straighter you can shoot with the shorter sticks, due to a round and compact swing. To achieve a nice round swing one must keep the hands close to the body which is impossible by reaching or using the flat swing. Reaching also throws one off balance causing you to fall into the shot which in turn causes you to heel the shot, hit the ground, or miss the ball entirely.

The illustration of Bobby Jones is the proper stance to take at address. Note how he avoids any tension, is loose and keeps his hands close to the body.

Golf Green Tests Prove Successful

State College, Penn., April 20 (AP)—New and greener golf greens are growing in experimental fields at Penn State college department of agriculture.

They become green earlier in the spring, stay greener in dry weather and retain their color later in the fall. They are the result of applying literally one of the golf stories of the nineteenth hole—the caution of the player who said he studied every blade of grass before sinking a wonderful putt.

There are nearly 150 individual blades of grass in this putting story, every one of them the daddy of a whole green. Each was selected originally from the finest golf grasses and by looking at many thousand of growths, blade by blade. The scientific putter in this true story is H. B. Musser, who is also a golfer.

Among a family of grasses, the blades differ like a family of children. Some possess special talents for putting greens, particularly because they stand upright in a uniform carpet instead of lying lumps—graininess the golfers call it. They also are distinguished by their color and resistance to disease.

Agricultural science has developed methods of selecting just one such promising grass child and multiplying him uncontaminated until his offspring covers a field, a whole new tribe as similar as selected peas. This is the work that Mr. Musser has been doing for two years.

Watertown Bowlers Cop Biggest Prizes

H. Allen and J. Scribner, of Detroit, were at the top of the heap in the doubles, with a score of 1311, while Frank McCarthy took top honors in the singles, with 677.

Brooklyn Robins End Losing Streak

Philadelphia, April 20 (AP)—Brooklyn's vaunted batting punch finally burst loose in all its glory today, the Robins pounding four Philly pitchers all over the lot and winning, 10 to 5, after five straight defeats.

Joe Shaute, pitching his first game in the National league, kept the local's 11 hits well scattered, while his mates drove Dudley from the hill in the sixth and continued their assault on Fallenstein, Wiltse and Watt.

RUTH GETS TWO CIRCUIT BLOWS

Lary on Base Both Times and Yankees Beat Athletics, 5-4

New York, April 20 (AP)—Two mighty blows by Babe Ruth, each coming with Lyn Lary on base, provided the winning margin by which the Yankees squared the series with the Philadelphia Athletics, 5 to 4, today. They were the Babe's second and third of the young season.

The Athletics spotted their ace righthander, George Earnshaw, a four run lead in the first three innings at the expense of Henry Johnson, but they were stopped cold there after by Gomez and Wells. The Yanks nicked Earnshaw for three runs in the fourth and Ruth's second homer in the eighth put on the finishing touches.

Spanish Fighter Takes Decision On Fight At Detroit

Detroit, April 20 (AP)—Vidal Gregoria, of Spain, took a ten round decision from Johnny Peters, English bantamweight, in a bout at Olympia arena tonight. Gregoria weighed 122, Peters 121½.

The Spantard had little difficulty with his opponent from England. His best weapon was his fast lunges which he used effectively to keep Peters from getting set. These wild rushes which sometimes carried him across the ring, brought him into close quarters and it was here that he reaped a harvest in points.

On the other hand the Britisher was the master at long range fighting and had little trouble smashing his right to the Spaniard's face on such occasions as he found himself out of Gregoria's reach. At infighting though, he was entirely on the defensive, and landed but few blows.

Gregoria was the fresher of the two after the fight was over, while Peters showed unmistakable signs of being tired as early as the sixth round.

Tony Tassi, 123, Detroit, defeated Sergo Radam, 120, Filipino, (6). The decision was extremely unpopular, and the crowd protested loud and long, preventing announcement of the second bout.

Solly Schuman, 124½, Chicago, defeated Juan Cruz, 122, Mexico City, (6).

Jackie Brady, 151, Syracuse, N. Y., won easily from young Harry Wills, 147½, Los Angeles negro in 10 rounds. There was one knockdown, the westerner going through the ropes into the press box in the second round.

Cincinnati Takes First Victory, 7-5

Cincinnati, O., April 20 (AP)—Nick Cullop's home run over the distant left field fence with two runners on the paths today gave the Cincinnati Reds a 7 to 5 margin over Pittsburgh and their first victory of the season. Red Lucas, local pitching ace, was hit hard but went the distance.

BRITISH LEADER LIBERAL POWER

David Lloyd George, 68, Has Fought 41 Years In Parliament

BY EDWARD STANLEY

London, (AP)—In the midst of jockeying for undisputed leadership of England's badly squeezed liberal party, David Lloyd George has completed his forty-first successive year as the member of parliament from Carnarvon.

That is longer than any other member in parliament and in point of service he is the "father of the house."

But none ever thinks of him as that venerable fiction, for "Little Davie" is still a scrapper, dangerous and agile both in debate and on the hustings.

True, has to play second and sometimes third fiddle now, but always when the nation is beginning to think him relegated to the third row the bouncing Welchman astonishes it with some unexpected solo passage injecting a new theme into the British political symphony.

Party Strong Man

During a recent meeting of liberals—described as a party "crisis"—he revealed that while he may not wield as powerful a whip as when prime minister in war days he still is that party's strong man.

What happened was that Lloyd George laid down his principles, his reasons for keeping labor in power, and invited a vote. Of the 50 liberal members in parliament, only 17 voted against his rule, and only five of these sided with his chief opponent, Sir John Simon, who wants to throw out the laborites.

All this was accomplished, incidentally, without unleashing his high-power oratory. Had he made that effort the opposition vote might have been smaller.

A Thankless Job

Roughly outlined, his hope has been to pass liberal measures in return for support of the labor government, and perhaps to 'liberalize" labor's proposals. This he prefers to any attempt to work with a conservative government. It is a thankless job.

"I would be only too glad," he said, "to be relieved of the most bewildering task ever entrusted to any political leader. But until I am relieved of it and the responsibility of it I propose to place such power and gifts and experience and strength as are left to me, to do my best to advance progressive legislation."

Lloyd George is 68 years old now, but his age lies lightly. His step is vigorous, quick, literally bouncing, and he seems to have moulted no feather of energy.

His only concession to Father Time seems to have been to trim his snowy mantle in a slightly more youthful fashion.

Polished Political Actor

Beyond doubt he is England's most polished political actor. One of his tricks is to arrive unexpectedly at a meeting and steal the show.

When speaking his round rubicund face wreathes easily in smiles as he leans slightly forward to emphasize a point.

He jokes ,and while his hearers laugh, twinkles fatherly upon them with his bright blue eyes, pauses, then caps the laugh with an epigram or bitter truth. He is a very telling orator.

Trips on Teakettle; Both Legs Scalded

Louis Jolly, 77, a resident of Cornell was admitted to St. Francis hospital Sunday morning suffering with infection of his legs which were badly scalded at his home two weeks ago.

Mr. Jolley, who is a widower, lived alone and tripped in the kitchen of his home two weeks ago. He knocked over the kettle as he tripped and the contents scalded his legs. He applied home remedies and did not come to the city to consult a physician. Last week his condition became serious and Sunday morning he was admitted to the hospital. He is getting on favorably, although the infection which has developed is causing him intense pain.

Your Home GARDEN

Planting Time for Garden Crops Varies From Freezing to Summer Weather

This is the fifth of a series of articles on home gardening, written especially for NEA Service and The Daily Press.

BY WILLIAM R. BEATTIE
Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture

The best way to plant any garden crop is when the weather is warm enough and the soil is dry enough to work.

Beattie

Planting dates for the various garden crops vary with the locality and the date of the last killing frost in the spring. Of course the date of the last killing frost can not be depended upon absolutely because it may be a little later one year than another.

We divide garden crops into about three more or less distinct groups according to their ability to withstand cold.

First, there are the very hardy ones, like peas, cabbage, onions, lettuce, spinach and radishes, that can be planted three or four weeks or even longer before danger of frost is over. Potatoes can also be included in this list because it takes them some time to come up, but after they do appear above ground they will not stand much freezing.

Onion sets are planted root down at uniform depth and in straight rows.

The second group includes those that will stand considerable cold but no actual freezing. These are the parsnips and carrots, small Lima beans, snap beans, cauliflower, early sweet corn, Swiss chard and beets.

No Dividing Line

The third group, which requires plenty of warmth, includes Lima beans, sweet potatoes, tomatoes, peppers, squashes and egg-plant.

The planting period for the first group, however, runs into that of the second group and the second group into the third. There is no distinct dividing line.

It pays to take a chance with the frost-resistant crops and plant just as soon as the ground is in condition.

Second and even third plantings should follow so that if the earlier plantings are killed, those that come later will survive and produce a crop. Peas, for example, can often be planted while the ground is still freezing on the surface every night.

"Air Drainage" Helps

Did you ever drive through a depression in the landscape on a warm summer evening and note how much cooler the air was in the low place? This is what fruit growers call "air drainage." It is the result of the colder air settling to the lower levels, leaving the warmer air on the higher ground.

Gardens on low ground may be completely frozen while those on higher ground will pull through a freeze in good condition. Even a difference of 40 or 50 feet in elevation may mean safety in the higher ground.

Methods of planting early crops are just as important as time of planting. The soil should be in good condition, well plowed, pulverized, fertilized, and all that. Then comes the question of planting distances and the depth to plant.

Soil Covering Varies

It is a safe rule that the heavier or more poorly drained the soil, the shallower the seed should be covered. In general, garden seeds should be covered only deep enough to insure enough moisture to get them started. Deeper coverings only retards them and delays their start.

Wherever the soil is loose and dry it pays to firm it slightly after planting and covering the seed. This can be done with the back of the hoe or by placing a board over the row and treading on it.

TOMORROW: Protecting the Plants.

View Fire Ruins—Local motorists reported hundreds of cars on the highway Sunday enroute to view the ruins left by the big fires at Wallace and Menominee.

Important Notice!

A City Ordinance prohibits the use of bank run gravel in sidewalk construction by specifically providing that material for this purpose be washed and screened. Why?

Because bank gravel contain clay, silt, and vegetable matter, which if left in the mix are bound to cause flaws. No concrete job can possibly hold up and give satisfaction unless they are eliminated. This can only be done by thorough and scientific washing. The Ordinance safeguards your interests as to outside walks because they are of a quasi-public nature. However, it is up to you to protect yourself on concrete construction of a private nature. Do your home improvements include the building of a private walk, wall, foundation, or floor? Then insist that you contractor uses washed sand and gravel. Most contractors do. Some don't.

The fact that the City and State will not permit the use of bank gravel in concrete construction of any nature should convince you that you don't want it.

Bichler Brothers have the only gravel screening and washing plant in Delta County. If your material comes from there it will pass both City and State inspection, otherwise not. Ask any engineer.

MANY LOGS ARE LOST IN BLAZE

Many Acres of Timber Land Along E. & L. S. Burned Over

A half million feet of logs, owned by the I. Stephenson company were destroyed by forest fires on the Mashek branch of the Escanaba and Lake Superior railway over the week-end.

It is estimated that about 24 square miles of timber landi along the Escanaba and Lake Superior railway, from Cornell to Ralph, have been burned over by the series of blazes that have been raging the past week. Several jobbers lost their camps and logging equipment. Victor Larson, who built new camps last fall, reports the destruction of every building, and Oliver J. Deshambo lost a tie mill, sleighs, jammers and other equipment that were left in the woods.

The E. & L. S. fire car, with a large crew of men, was sent out to fight the fires Saturday afternoon, returning Monday morning when the heavy rainfall checked the progress of the flames. A large amount of timber piled at landings was saved through the efforts of this fire fighting crew.

About a week ago, a quantity of posts and pulpwood, belonging to the Sawyer-Stoll company of Escanaba, was burned on the Hendricks branch.

This was the most serious fire to ravage that district in many years.

Electrician Hurt in Explosion of Battery Solution

James P. Courneene, 37, living at 1105 North First avenue, was injured Monday morning at about 7:45 o'clock when a 24 cell battery containing an alkali solution exploded at the Escanaba Paper Co., mill at Groos where Mr. Courneene is employed as assistant chief electrician.

Mr. Courneene was looking into the battery when it blew up and he received a quantity of the solution in the face, blinding him for a while. He was taken to St. Francis hospital. Attending physicians stated yesterday that the eyesight will be saved.

He will probably be laid up for some time but chances for a complete recovery are very favorable.

Owing to Mr. Courneene's nervous condition, the attending physician stated late yesterday that positively no visitors wil be admitted in his room.

OBITUARY

JOHN BECK

The body of John Beck will remain at the Anderson funeral home where funeral services will be conducted this afternoon at two o'clock by Rev. Dr. C. Albert Lund, pastor of the Bethany Lutheran church, of which the deceased was a devout member.

Interment will be made in the family lot in Lakeview cemetery where a daughter, Miss Linnea Beck, was buried four months ago.

Mr. Beck was drowned Saturday afternoon while out fishing with a group of friends when the boat tipped over in Bay de Noc near the Hansen and Jensen docks.

A brother, Emil Beck, who is employed near Newberry, is expected to arrive today.

Ruins so ancient that they show water marks left by the Biblical flood have been unearthed on the site of the ancient Sumerian city of Kish, just east of Babylon, according to a report of the Oxford-Field Museum expedition.
